TO BE LAUNCHED NEXT TUESDAY

The T J. Potter Nearly Ready to Take Her Plunge Into the Water

Mr Steffen who has the personal superintendence of the construction of the O R & N Company's steamer T J Potter is crowding every branch of the work forward with all practicable dispatch There is a large force of men employed, but owing to the fine and elaborate character of much of the interior wood finishing, the work does not progress as rapidly as could be desired On the hull the work is rapidly approaching completion and by next Tuesday it is expected that the boat will take her baptismal plunge into the river

The launching of this new and elegant boat will be an important event in the history of the navigation of Portland and the interesting spectacle will, no doubt be witnessed by a large crowd The distance which the new boat will glide down the lubricated ways will be short as the frame of the hull was laid near the river bank and during the past few weeks the water has been steadily rising. The T J Potter will be completed and ready for the summer seaside travel in good time.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

A Lively Struggle Probable Over Arrears of Pensions.

NOTES OF INTEREST TO OREGON

The Republican Programme on the Fisheries Treaty—A Quiet Day in Congress—The River and Harbor Bill

WASHINGTON May 23—A dilemma confronts the house committee on rules in the shape of the arrears of pension bill, which threatens to prove as embarrassing as was the direct tax bill Johnson of Indiana has introduced a resolution which is now before the committee making the pension bill a special order for Friday with a provision that its consideration shall continue in the house from day to day until the bill is finally voted upon If reported favorably it is believed the bill will pass the house upon the final vote The large appropriation required in that event will negative the idea of tariff reduction On the other hand should the opponents of the measure as in the case of the direct tax bill succeed in defeating action upon the bill it may be at the expense of the tariff bill as the defeat will have to be accomplished by the adoption of filibustering tactics

A MISSOURIAN'S OPINION

WASHINGTON, May 23—Representative Walker of Missouri, from the committee on invalid pensions, has prepared for presentation to the house a minority report adverse to the bill extending the time during which claims may be allowed for arrears of pensions The report states that it will require $500,000,000 to carry out the provisions of the bill Walker says the bill if passed, will not only dispose of the surplus, but will also add several hundred millions to the burdens of the nation already weighted down by taxation In conclusion, he says the American people not only have been fair and just to these ex soldiers but have enacted pension laws with a liberality and generosity unparalleled in the pension legislation of any country on earth In behalf of the taxpaying public, a large majority of whom are struggling to make a living, many even struggling to keep the wolf from the door, he protests against the passage of the bill.

NORTHWESTERN INTERESTS.

Work of the Oregon Delegation—Land Office Rulings—Etc.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Representative Hermann to-day procured an establishment of a postal money order office at Florence in Lane county, Oregon Although the annual receipts do not bring this place under the regulation for money order offices, yet in view of its shipping interests, and increasing business there, which Mr Hermann assured the department will soon raise the office to the minimum rank, this exception is made

Secretary Vilas has affirmed the decision of the commissioner of the general land office in allowing James B Bates to file a declaratory statement for certain land in the North Yakima land district, Washington territory

Secretary Vilas has modified the decision of the commissioner of the general land office in rejecting the final proof offered by Robert Black, and holding for cancellation his final homestead entry on certain land in the Walla Walla, Washington territory land district The secretary's modification permits Black to submit during the lifetime of his entry, further proof showing full compliance with the homestead laws.

Senator Dolph's bill for relief of R G Coombs and others, of Portland, Oregon, who performed labor and furnished material for the revenue cutter Tom Corwin, at Portland, some years ago passed the senate yesterday The bill for relief of the First National bank, on account of matters growing out of the same transaction, which passed the house and was sent to the senate early in the session, was amended in the senate by adding the provisions of the Coombs bill but a committee of conference has not yet been appointed by the house

The river and harbor bill which was reported to the senate on Monday and ordered to be printed and referred to the committee on commerce, will probably be reported back to morrow

Senator Mitchell presented a petition from citizens of Dayton, Or praying that some provision be made by congress for the payment of Indian depredation claims allowed by the department of the interior

Senator Mitchell also presented a memorial of a number of citizens of Sheridan, Yamhill county, Or asking for the passage of a bill for protection of the Yellowstone National Park

Senator Mitchell also presented a petition from a number of citizens of Linn county Oregon praying that a pension be granted to W S Meyer late private in Company L First regiment, U S cavalry

THE FISHERIES TREATY

It Will Not be Considered in Open Session, as Wrongly Announced.

WASHINGTON, May 23—There is no doubt that the fisheries treaty is an absolute surrender of the rights of the United States and is a disgrace to the administration The only trouble is that many questions connected with it are local and complicated in detail Senator Edmunds understands the question perfectly, and that being so it is impossible for him to conceive that everybody else has not the same information He is desirous of rejecting the treaty and burying the reasons therefor in an elaborate report written by himself, which few if any body will read

Western senators demanded that a substitute for the treaty should be drawn which would assert American rights and be submitted to the president. Of course it was not expected that such treaty would be agreed to by either the president or Great Britain but it would serve as a declaration of the rights of the United States and enable the people to contrast it with the giveaway treaty of Mr Cleveland This course was objected to by such men as Mr Edmunds and Mr Hale

It was then suggested that the treaty be discussed in public so that the country could be informed of its disgraceful propositions This was agreed upon in caucus by all except Mr Hale who appeared to be too conscientious to let the West know what the East is doing The consequence was that when the senate went into executive session at 2 P M yesterday to act upon the treaty, a motion was made to open the doors and discuss the treaty in public but it was lost by the vote of Mr Hale A good deal of feeling has been created against the course of the New England senator in trying to prevent open discussion of the treaty or some other arrangement whereby all the people of the United States may know its effect The conduct of Mr Hale has occasioned a good deal of unfavorable comment. It is to be hoped however that the treaty will be sufficiently ventilated to inform the public of its exact bearings and provisions before it is finally acted upon

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS

The Day Spent on the Postoffice Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON May 23—The house went into committee of the whole on the postoffice appropriation bill. Blount of Georgia explained the items of the bill, and the necessity for increases A protracted debate ensued, during which Perkins of Kansas, referred to the reply of the postmaster-general to his resolution of inquiry into the alleged misconduct of the Western mail service, which, he said, had not been laid before the house for action.

Blount explained that the matter would have been reported to the house from the committee, but for the tariff debate

Perkins then criticised the bill for making an increase of only 5 per cent in its appropriation for railway postal clerks while the railway mail service had increased over 10 per cent in the last eighteen months The increase in the appropriation was not in keeping with the increase of the service, or its growth He then proceeded to argue that the present administration had discriminated against the Western country in the matter of mail service, which he declared was bad and inefficient

The debate then took a political turn After a time several amendments were offered among them one to increase from six million to six million two hundred thousand the appropriation for the free delivery service and one to increase by $600 000 the appropriation for the star route service All were lost

Without action the committee rose and the house adjourned

SENATE PROCEEDINGS

Adjournment Taken for the Funeral of Mrs Sawyer

WASHINGTON May 23—In the secret session to-day a motion was made by Senator Sherman to proceed to consideration of the fisheries treaty in open session

Half an hour's debate followed, at the end of which the senate adjourned without action It is expected that the question will be revived to morrow, and the republicans think, from present indications, that the doors will be thrown wide open

Among the bills placed on the calendar was one to increase the efficiency of the medical corps of the navy

McPherson introduced a joint resolution providing for medals to officers and enlisted men of three months' service in 1861, referred

The senate proceeded to executive business, and when the doors were reopened adjournment was taken to enable the senators to attend the obsequies of Mrs Sawyer

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC'S DEBT

Judge Littler Before the Senate Committee on Pacific Railways.

WASHINGTON May 23 Mr Littler of the Pacific railroad commission addressed the senate committee to-day to which the commission's report was referred in reference to his plan for adjusting the debt of the Central Pacific The judge said 2 per cent interest on the debt of $53 000 000 would amount to within $175,000 of the entire present income of the road He would first cause to be ascertained the present income and its prospect of future increase He would ascertain how much of this it required to pay 2 per cent interest and would devote the balance to payment of the principal and extend the limit of years sufficient to wipe it out Judge Littler said he believed some of the strong men who had either legitimately or illegitimately made a vast number of millions of dollars out of the road, would in order to avoid further discussion of their conduct before the American people through the press, go down into their own pockets and contribute something towards payment of the debt or at least they would contribute from the earnings of other lines of road which they owned

THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL

And the Obstructions to Navigation in the Columbia.

WASHINGTON May 23—The changes made by the senate committee in the river and harbor bill included a provision that a board of three army officers shall be appointed to examine the obstructions to navigation in the Columbia at The Dalles and Celilo Falls and at Three and Ten Mile rapids, to report to the secretary of war on or before the first Monday in December next as to the practicability and advisability of overcoming such obstructions by means of a boat railway at The Dalles and at Celilo Falls and by widening to a navigable stage for large tonnage river boats the channel of said river at Three and Ten Mile rapids, accompanied by careful and detailed plans with estimates of the cost and a statement as to the usefulness of such improvements to navigation and of their relations and value to commerce The sum of $15 000 is appropriated to defray the expense of the examinations

TERRITORIAL HOME RULE.

Delegate Dubois of Idaho will Work for a Plank in the Platform.

WASHINGTON May 23—Delegate Dubois of Idaho territory intends to go to the Chicago convention and urge upon the various delegates from the territory to that body the necessity of inserting a strong plank in the republican national platform in favor of local self government in the territory The democrats made a pledge of this kind at their last national convention but Cleveland has systematically ignored and violated it The people of the territories naturally insist that the federal officers in these territories shall be taken from among their number Mr Dubois thinks he can secure such a firm stand on the part of the delegates from all the territories that a plank will be put in the republican national platform which will secure local self government if the republicans carry the election

THIS YEAR HE WILL NOT FISH

President Cleveland's Programme for Decoration Day.

WASHINGTON, May 23—The president will leave Washington on next Tuesday evening for New York to take part in the Memorial day exercises in that city and Brooklyn The following day he will review a parade in New York in the morning, and Brooklyn in the afternoon At the close of the exercises in the latter city he will go to Jersey City and take the first train for Washington. Mrs Cleveland will not accompany the president to New York on this occasion. She will, however make a visit to that city later in the season.

Lighthouses for the Pacific Coast

WASHINGTON, May 23 The secretary of the treasury has transmitted to congress recommendations by the lighthouse board that lighthouses and flag signals be established at the following named points on the Pacific coast At Point Buchon Cal, to cost $33,000 Stewarts Island W T, $15 000 at Patos Island W T $15 000 and at Point Arguello Cal $35 000 In each case the board reports that lights are very necessary because of the existence of dangerous currents and prevailing fogs on well established routes of travel

Gen. Sheridan But Slightly Ill.

WASHINGTON May 23.—It is stated at army headquarters that reports regarding the illness of Lieut-Gen. Sheridan are very much exaggerated. He seemed to be suffering from fatigue or overwork, and Monday he decided to remain at home and rest for a few days, but he has not been confined to his bed.

1st On the site a hotel will be erected including a new theater in the same way as the Baldwin is built the seating capacity being more limited in accommodation than that offered by the present auditorium This purpose makes the lesseeship of Mr W B Leavitt as recently stated a myth The new theater when completed will be devoted to light comedy farce and small operas the prices of admission ranging from 25 cents to $1 It is further said that Manager Al Hayman is in the field to secure a lease of the new place of amusement

Resolutions in the Senate

WASHINGTON May 22 The following resolutions were introduced in the Senate to day Resolution of the board of trade of Portland Or asking a large appropriation for the support of the revenue marine also a resolution of the board of trade of Portland praying that river and harbor improvements be continued in the charge of army engineers Petition of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Southern California asking repeal of all internal revenue tax on alcoholic liquors Petition of the faculty of the University of California in favor of an international copyright law

The Mills Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON May 23—So far as a party can be regarded as bound by the feeling of a conference, as distinct from a caucus the republican representatives in the house have formally decided to decline to accept Mills's proposition to dispense with consideration of the tariff bill under the five minute rule The democratic members of the ways and means committee are hard at work upon amendments proposed by democrats endeavoring to dispose of them before the end of the week so the house can enter upon consideration of the bill for amendments next week

The Indian Appropriation Bill

WASHINGTON May 23—The senate committee on appropriations has completed consideration of the Indian appropriation bill and will probably report it to morrow It has made a net reduction of $226 000 making the total appropriation $8 172 000 in round numbers Sixty five thousand is appropriated for the payment of the Kaw or Kansas Indian scrip $25,000 for an industrial school in Nevada to be erected on donated land $25 000 for the support of Indian day and industrial schools and $10,000 for an Indian school at Grand Junction, Colorado.

A FATHER'S TERRIBLE CRIME

He Murders His Daughter, Who Had Been Seduced and Deserted.

CURTIS, Neb, May 23—Mrs Anna Bryant was murdered by her father William Greenwood last night She had just given birth to a child after she had been married only three months Her husband has left the country She was only 16 years of age.

Further particulars show the murder to have been one of the most brutal ever heard of The girl was seduced some time ago and her betrayer was compelled to marry her, but immediately deserted her and fled The girl came home a couple of months ago from Omaha, and her father was terribly enraged at her Yesterday when he returned from town he found that his daughter had been delivered of a child a few minutes before He deliberately drew a revolver and shot her dead in bed, and would have done the same with the babe had not his wife seized it and fled It is thought he will be lynched

WITH THE POLITICIANS.

The Administration Machine Running Without a Jar.

THE PENNSYLVANIANS PLATFORM.

In Illinois the Entire Ticket is Nominated by Acclamation and an Administration Platform is Adopted

HARRISBURG Pa May 23—The democratic state convention to elect delegates at large to the national convention electors and a candidate for the supreme court met this morning at the Opera house at 10 30 The indications are that the proceedings will be rather tame owing to the withdrawal this morning of Congressman Speer from the contest for delegate at large thereby smoothing the way for Congressman Scott's programme to send himself ex Congressman Boyle ex Attorney general Cassidy and ex-Congressman Mutchler at the head of the delegation to St Louis

After the election of temporary officers, and the appointment of committees the convention took a recess till 2 o clock

The committee on resolutions held a meeting immediately after adjournment of the convention Ex Congressman Storm at once offered a set of resolutions one of which, relating to the tariff declared revision of the tariff laws necessary with a view to their simplification correction of their incongruities and inequalities, regulation of duties in such a manner as will put American industry on a firm and permanent basis covering the difference in wages in this country and in foreign countries the abolition of taxes on raw materials for the manufacturer, and relief of the people from useless and onerous taxes and from extortion by trusts and monopolies controlling the purchase and sale of common necessities. Hearty and emphatic endorsement is given the recommendations of President Cleveland's last annual message to congress A recommendation was made to congress to promptly pass the revenue bill reported from the committee on ways and means and the resolution urges democratic representatives in congress from Pennsylvania to give it their earnest and undivided support

Saunders of Philadelphia then offered a substitute for the tariff section of Storms' proposed platform The substitute reaffirms the principles of the democratic platform of '84 and endorses the president's message; but makes no mention of the Mills bill

After an extremely lively debate the substitute was defeated, receiving only two or three votes, and the Storm resolutions were adopted and ordered reported to the convention as the platform

The convention was called to order at 2 30 and Wm A Wallace was made permanent president At the conclusion of his address the platform was presented and adopted In addition to the resolutions already telegraphed, other planks declare that the public lands must be reserved for actual settlement of citizens and no further grants made to aliens on any account whatever The republican party is arraigned for its past policy in this respect and the democratic administration eulogized for restorations made The platform declares that the surplus should be applied to reduction of the principal and interest of the public debt; and that express authority should be given the president to purchase bonds in advance of their maturity until such surplus shall have been exhausted

The country is congratulated on the maintenance of the dignity of the government abroad and of peace and tranquillity at home under the wise and patriotic administration of President Cleveland

Pensions paid under the present democratic administration are declared to be almost double in amount those paid under republican administrations, and the democratic party favors a just and proper pension act which shall do ample justice to all deserving volunteer soldiers and sailors of the United States now living, and to the widows and orphans of such as have died from causes traceable to service

Trusts and monopolies are denounced.

The importation of foreign contract labor, and the landing of foreign paupers on American soil, should be effectually prohibited.

L C Cassidy Charles F Boyle Wm T. Mutchler and Wm L. Scott were selected as delegates at large Presidential electors at large ex Congressman Spear and A F Keating Supreme judge J B McCullom.

ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS.

They Nominate a Ticket and Adopt an Administration Platform.

SPRINGFIELD Ills May 23—The democratic state convention was called to order at noon Gen Jesse J Phillips was elected chairman and addressed the convention briefly The committees were then announced and recess taken until 2 o'clock

In the afternoon the temporary organization was made permanent Delegates at large were selected as follows Wm R Morrison, Wm C Goudy N E Worthington and James S Ewing Presidential electors at large Charles H Schwab and M C Crawford

The platform heartily indorses and eulogizes President Cleveland's administration and tariff message, and declares that the public good demands his re-election It demands reform in taxation, so as to make so far as possible the luxuries rather than the necessities of life bear the burden and that taxes be levied in such a manner as not to create class distinction promote business favoritism or breed trusts and monopolies; favors full government inquiry into the causes of the present disturbed condition of the industrial world legislation to remove unjust burdens from laborers and laws to encourage and promote arbitration demand that congress make provision for the construction of a waterway between the lakes and the Mississippi river as set forth in the waterway convention of 1887 and request the St Louis convention to make this question a plank in the platform commends the energetic action and liberal course of President Cleveland's administration in administering all the pension laws for the benefit of Union soldiers and their families; opposes alien holdings of lands, opposes legislation restricting immigration and naturalization of honest men desiring to assume the duties of proper citizenship

Ex Gov John M Palmer was nominated for governor by acclamation A J Bell for lieutenant governor N D Ricks for secretary of state Andrew Welch for auditor; Charles Wacker for treasurer and Jacob R Creighton for attorney-general were also nominated by acclamation

OREGON POLITICS

The State May Expect Interference so Long as She Votes in June

SAN FRANCISCO May 23—In a three column editorial on Oregon politics this evening's Bulletin says If a victory in Oregon could be won before the meeting of the democratic national convention a sort of current or drift north and south toward free trade could be figured out This is all the more necessary from the fact that the first of the elections held this year that of Rhode Island on April 4—showed a decided republican reaction Oregon has, therefore become a sort of index state for national conventions, which are usually held in the month of June In the [illegible] time that state will probably find that the function of pointing out or seeming to point out, the way for politicians will be followed by a loss of self-control An election coming off at the date stated will always for the reasons stated invite interference from the outside Fresh Attempts to Burn the Catholic Orphan Asylum.

FOOD FISHES OF THE PACIFIC.

The Faling Tragedy—Murder Over a Woman—The Loss of the San Pablo—A School Girl Assaulted by a Jap.

SAN RAFAEL, May 23.—Since Saturday's fire at St. Vincent's orphan asylum, which was clearly shown to have been incendiary, Father Rheinhardt and the corps of teachers have maintained a vigil day and night, fearing a repetition of the attempt.

Last night at 7:30 o'clock smoke was seen issuing from the washroom in the north end of the building, and immediately all was confusion. The cry of fire brought Father Rheinhardt to the scene, and the door of the washroom was burst open, and after a difficult search in blinding smoke the fire was located in a small closet in the room.

After it had been extinguished, a mass of half-burned paper, on which was a liberal supply of wood, and a broken bottle which contained coal oil, were found.

One of the suspected boys, when interrogated, said he obtained matches on Saturday, and the coal oil was procured by emptying a lamp in the dormitory. The match was applied shortly before they were called to the study hall.

This morning, shortly before the boys were sent to the yard, smoke was again discovered, this time in a small room under the fire escape, in the south wing. The blaze was quickly extinguished, and the same materials as used last night were found. An investigation resulted in Daniel Lee, J. Busteed and W. Curley, all of San Francisco, being given into the sheriff's charge. The former were implicated in Saturday's fire, while a third, J. Wilkinson, was sent to the industrial school.

Five of the boys who escaped Saturday are still at large.

PACIFIC COAST FISHES.

More of the Broad Gauge Views of Prof. Davidson.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—In the preliminary remarks of Prof. Davidson's letter upon the fisheries of Alaska, a note was made that he had not mentioned the Albatross in his report. He was called upon to-day, and asked his opinion of the value of the work of the Albatross on this coast. After a few words he said:

The shore line of the coast and islands of California, Oregon and Washington, not including bays or rivers, is 3120 miles in length. The shore line of the Archipelago, extending from Dixon sound to Icy strait, is 7900 miles. From Icy strait to Point Barrow, the shore line of the main land of Alaska, and of the great islands of the Kodiak group and Aleutian chain, has not been measured but it would be safe to estimate it at not less than 15,000 miles. Throughout the whole of these shores of 26,000 miles, ranging through the greater part of forty degrees of latitude, there are countless millions of food fishes, of cretaces and of fur-bearing animals. There are many species of food fishes known to the natives, but unknown to us. We are almost totally ignorant of the habits of many of the common food fishes, and if the comparatively limited seaboard of the Atlantic and Gulf states requires the services of one such vessel as the Albatross, one such station as Wood's Holl, and all the resources of the national museum and United States fish commissioner then this coast, with many times the Eastern shore line, certainly can lay claim to one efficient vessel like the Albatross, and some station like Wood's Holl, where experiments can be carried on. There should really be two such vessels on the Pacific, one for duty on the coast from latitude 32 degrees to latitude 49 degrees, with a natural history station properly located thereon, and a second vessel for duty off the northern part of our coast, from latitude 54 deg. 40 min. to latitude 72 deg., with a natural history station for the study of northern fishes.

THE FALING TRAGEDY.

A Disgraceful Squabble Over the Dead Man's Jewelry.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—Mrs. Cawley has retained possession of the diamonds of C. D. Faling, who was recently shot by his wife, since the murdered man died in the receiving hospital, and a suit in a justice's court is the latest development.

H. H. Matthews, administrator of C. D. Faling's estate, sought to recover one large diamond ring and two shirt studs, or $299 99, their value, from Mrs. A. C. Cawley.

Mrs. Xarifa J. Faling, Ida M. Carroll and defendant appeared in Justice Burke's court this afternoon, annd the former were placed on the stand by plaintiff's attorney. Matthews said that after repeated demands defendant had refused to deliver up the diamonds. She took them to Oregon when she went there recently, and the jewels were in her possession at present.

Mrs. Faling testified to the purchase of the ring and studs at a pawn shop in Portland, Oregon, at a cost of $167 50.

Mrs. Carroll said: "When Faling was dying he asked me to give the Cawley woman the diamonds, to take to the Safe Deposit vaults. I know be had a box there because I went there with him. The ring and studs were worth $400, he told me."

A jeweler named Lewis testified to the value of stones of the size mentioned, being about $200.

Mrs. Cawley, defendant, testified: "I had been promised these diamonds by Charley, and wore the ring two years. He said nothing about the safe deposit when he told the Carroll woman to give them to me, but rather than that Xarifa J. Failing should have them, he said they should be thrown into the sea."

"Where are the diamonds now?" asked Mr. Ash, plaintiff's attorney.

"I refuse to state. They are mine, and I will not tell where they are," replied the woman.

The case was continued until to-morrow, for the hearing of further testimony from a reporter who saw the jewels transferred.

MURDER OVER A WOMAN.

The Crime of a Jealous Husband, Near Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—The following particulars of a murder at San Juan-by-the-Sea reached here this evening: Frank Wilson, a fisherman, living on the beach, some five weeks ago took Alfred R. Wolff and his wife, a good-looking blonde, and a friend named Alfred Peterson, into his cabin, giving them supper. The little blonde was too much for Wilson and trouble ensued. Last Thursday Wolff tried to shoot Wilson, but he was prevented by his wife. Wolff and wife, and Peterson, went to Santa Ana three weeks ago. To-day Wolff and party hired a rig, saying he was going to kill Wilson. He drove to San Juan-by-the-Sea, and all got out and walked to the porch of the hotel where Wilson stood. Wolff spoke a few words about Wilson kissing his wife, and writing her letters, and then drew a revolver and shot Wilson just as he turned, and the ball took effect in his back. Wilson fell, and Wolff continued shooting. The second shot took effect in the neck. Two more shots missed. Wilson died instantly.

Wolff took his wife's arm and walked to the buggy, and with Peterson started to drive away. They were arrested, and brought to Santa Ana with the body. Wolff's parents live in Alameda, and are reported wealthy. Wolff is a druggist. He served as apothecary's clerk on the steamer Pinto, running to Alaska, for fifteen months.

THE LOSS OF THE SAN PABLO.

Boarded by Chinese Pirates and Burned to the Water.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—The steamer City of Peking arrived from Hong Kong and Yokohoma to-day, and brings a more definite account of the wreck of the steamer San Pablo, near Turnabout island, in the straits of Formosa, about a month ago. A heavy fog prevailed at the time, and the steamer ran upon a hidden reef. The locality is infested with pirates, and as soon as they saw the San Pablo was aground they made an attempt to board her, but were driven off after a sharp fight, in which a number of shots were fired by the officers and crew of the steamer. It was found impossible to get the San Pablo off, and she was abandoned, after which the pirates went aboard and ransacked her, and then set the steamer on fire, burning her to the water's edge.

A CRAZY JAPANESE.

With a Big Knife He Assaults a Pretty School Girl.

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—A pretty 14-year-old girl named Bessie Deyo, on her way to school this morning was confronted by a Japanese, who caught the girl, and, drawing a big knife, slashed her across the throat and right cheek, making an ugly but not fatal wound. A teamster heard the girl's cries, and rushed to the scene and knocked the Jap down, holding him till he was arrested. The assailant speaks a little English, and says he wanted to make love to the girl. It is thought he is crazy.

CALIFORNIA.

The Sunday School Association.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—The pretty new church presided over by Rev. G. W. Izer, formerly of the Taylor street church, Portland, and known as M. E. Grace church, is the place where the normal institute of the Sunday school association are holding their annual convention. The exercises are being conducted by Col. Robert Cowden, of Ohio, and this morning the convention was formally organized. The various plans of work are modeled on the Chautauqua method of teaching, and like kindergarten work, each proposition is illustrated with colored chalk diagrams. At the evening session Gen. O. O. Howard addressed the Sunday school class.

Arrival of a Railroad President.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—General Edward F. Winslow, president of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad, arrived yesterday in this city from New York, via Los Angeles. Accompanied by Gen. Horace Porter, Mr. and Mrs. William Armory Jr., Miss Andrews and Mrs. Frost, he has been making a tour of inspection over the lines in which he is interested. Replying to a question he said: "I simply wanted to look over the Atlantic and Pacific railway and see what improvements were necessary." General Winslow will remain in the city a few days and then go East via the Northern Pacific, stopping at Portland en route.

Killed by a Train.

STOCKTON, May 23.—Late this afternoon Fred Hoagland, an old resident of this county, and John Giannini, a farmer, were run into, three miles from this city, by a train from the south, and Hoagland was instantly killed. The buggy was smashed and the horse's leg broken, necessitating killing him. Hoagland's body was carried some distance and all the bones apparently smashed. Giannini was thrown about fifty feet and a piece of flesh was torn out of his back, his head being severely bruised. Deceased leaves a wife and three children. An inquest will be held to-morrow.

Suit For Heavy Damages.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—The action brought by Annie M. Cary to recover $50,000 from the Central Pacific Railway Company for personal injuries, is still on trial before Judge Levy and a jury. As plaintiff was alighting from a train of cars in Oakland, on the 29th of March, the train started, and she was thrown violently to the ground. The defense is that the passenger, finding that she was on the wrong train, jumped off after the cars had passed the station, and that therefore she was guilty of contributory negligence.

Strike of Switchmen.

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—Switchmen employed in the Southern Pacific yards of this city struck at 6 o'clock this evening. The strikers allege that the company has been gradually weeding out the men who took part in the strike of a few weeks ago. The yardmaster, on the hand, says the only grievance the men have grows out of the discharge of four of their number whom he found asleep when they should have been on duty last night.

His Last Spree.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—James Smith, barkeeper in James Haver's saloon at Potrero, this morning discovered the dead body of a man in a cesspool in the rear of the place. It was ascertained that deceased was Michael Commer, a laborer. Since Sunday he had been on a spree. He was home this morning. The pool is fourteen feet below the flooring of the saloon, and it is supposed that Commer fell in while in a dazed condition.

The Coleman Failure.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—The statement of the exact status of the affairs of the firm of William T. Coleman & Co. was not made public to-day, as was promised. The senior member of the firm assigned as the reason the difficulty in estimating the assets of three borax companies in which the house had more than a controlling interest. It is unofficially stated that the statement will be filed within the next two days.

The Ensenada Contest.

SAN DIEGO, May 23.—Harry Burton, son of Mrs. Maria Burton, who has been contesting the title of the International Company to the Ensenada tract, in Lower California, received a dispatch from her attorney to-day, asking him to leave at once for that place to take possession, as he has understood from Judge Spendola that a decision favorable to Mrs. Burton will be rendered to-morrow or next day.

The Lusk Failure.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—Assignee Wilcox for the J. Lusk Canning Company has ordered the property of the company to be sold next Tuesday at the auction rooms of Easton & Eldridge, San Francisco. A syndicate is in process of formation with Thomas D. Corneal, the present president of the corporation, at its head, who expects to secure the property.

A Widow Sues Kissane.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—The widow of Jesse B. Hart, a lawyer, has commenced suit against Wm. Kissane Rogers, to recover $5000 for services rendered by her husband about two years ago in going to New York and Arkansas and attending to certain legal proceedings pending against defendant in those states under the name of Wm. Kissane.

A Rich Coal Strike.

LIVERMORE, May 23.—The Livermore Coal Mining Company, which purchased the coal lands of the Derby estate, purchased to-day coal bunkers, railroad trucks and cars. One incline is down 130 feet, and struck a vein of coal four and a half feet thick, which is believed to be excelled by no other on this coast, except Wellington.

Hinz Pleads Guilty.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—Adolph Hinz pleaded guilty in the United States circuit court to-day to a charge of conspiracy, in connection with Boyd-Ciprico and others, to defraud the government, by sale of Chinese certificates. Sentence was suspended for sixty days, to allow him to apply to the president for a pardon.

Fourth of July.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—At a meeting of the executive committee on celebration of the Fourth of July this afternoon a motion was carried that the exercises consist of a parade and literary exercises, any additional features to be determined in the future.

Another Libel Suit.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—John T. Fogarty, deputy surveyor of the port, who was recently charged by the Examiner with being connected with opium smuggling operations, commenced suit for libel against that paper to-day, claiming $50,000 damages.

Drowned in the Surf.

SANTA CRUZ, May 23.—Turner Purdum, while fishing on some rocks this morning, a mile south of here, was washed off by the surf and drowned. He formerly lived in McLean county, Illinois, where he owns several large farms.

Graduating Exercises.

SAN JOSE, May 23.—The graduating exercises of the University of the Pacific were held to-day. The class, including classical, Latin, scientific and normal courses, and the department of music, numbers twenty.

Ex-Senator Grover.

Wool From Oregon.

REDDING, May 23.—Wool is arriving freely from Lakeview, Oregon, and other Northwestern and Northern quarters.

NORTHWESTERN NEWS.

An Obliging Democrat Sits in a Republican Convention.

COL. IRISH IS A GRESHAM MAN.

The Walla Walla Arson Trial—Proceedings of the State Grange—A Booming Town in Montana—Notes.

HELENA, Mont., May 23.—An amusing feature of the republican territorial convention, recently held at Livingston, to send two delegates to Chicago, has just leaked out. A democrat acted as a delegate in the convention, holding a seat and casting the votes of himself and one or two proxies. The gentleman who performed this unique act was Vincent Burch, of Gird's creek in the Bitter Root valley. It seems that he came through Missoula on the train en route to Missouri. Some of the delegates to the Livingston convention from that county, who are opposed to Blaine, concluded not to attend the convention, and gave Mr. Burch, in the absence of their alternates, their proxies, to represent them in the convention, with instructions to vote for T. C. Power, and to oppose every resolution instructing the Chicago delegation for Blaine. Mr. Burch is an uncompromising democrat, but with all that one of the most accommodating fellows in the world, and naturally enough he consented to help out the anti-Blaine men from that county. Being an anti-Blaine man from principle, however, he represented that faction in Missoula county with credit to himself and satisfaction to them. He carried out his instructions faithfully, and never made the slightest attempt to kick up a row.

JOHN P. IRISH AT SALEM.

He Asserts that Gresham is a Free Trader, and Voted for Tilden.

SALEM, Or., May 23.—John P. Irish addressed 500 people at the opera house tonight. He confined himself almost wholly to discussion of the tariff question, but once or twice branched out into the general political field. He spoke, among other things, of the advocacy of THE OREGONIAN of the nomination of Walter Q. Gresham for president, and when he mentioned Judge Gresham's name he was, much to his astonishment, interrupted by a rousing cheer from a part of his audience, evidently republican. Irish retaliated by saying that he was much pleased to witness such evident appreciation of so good a man as Walter Q. Gresham, for he was an out and out free trader, and voted for Samuel J. Tilden in 1876. Then the democracy howled.

THE WALLA WALLA ARSON TRIAL.

Damaging Testimony Against a Man Named Clink.

WALLA WALLA, May 23.—The arson trial was continued. Mrs. Landis, who occupied and rented a two-story building on Poplar street the night the Aurora hotel was burned, and a man named Clink, were placed on trial.

On motion of the prosecuting attorney, Mrs. Landis, otherwise Mooney, was discharged and placed on the witness stand. She testified that on the night of the fire Clink came to her, and said: "The Aurora hotel is going, and this place will have to go too." She says she objected, when Clink placed a pistol to her face, saying he would kill her if she made objection, and "dead persons tell no tales." She says Clink saturated the hall with half a can of coal oil, and made her fetch another can, which he also threw around.

Other witnesses testify that Clink endeavored to persuade them to help him work up a case against a Mrs. Shaw, who lodged in Mrs. Landis's house, stating that the reward, on her conviction, would be $1000.

From appearances the whole crowd had evidently followed incendiarism as a business for many years, and only became careless from impunity.

THE STATE GRANGE.

Elections of Officers, Reports of Committees, Etc.

SALEM, May 23.—The State Grange assembled this morning, at the hour named, and was opened by Overseer J. G. Powell.

Judge C. E. Moore, of Benton county, made a report in reference to the agricultural college, and submitted a resolution upon the subject, and moved its reference to the committee on agricultural college; carried. Judge Moore asked that Mr. Stump, of Benton county, be accepted as a member in his stead; so voted.

The committee on good of the order reported, recommending the remission of the dues of Mono grange, and the committee on order of business reported, both reports being adopted.

Hon. J. Voorhees, of Marion county, was made a voting member, in place of Hon. Charles Miller, who could not be present.

Worthy Secretary Dewey, of the California State Grange, and editor of the California Patron, who had arrived on the morning train, was introduced and cordially welcomed.

Treasurer Hayes read a very able report, embracing all topics of interest to the order.

Several resolutions in reference to legislative matters, and changes in the organic law, were read and referred to appropriate committees.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The special order of business was the election of officers, resulting in the choice of the following: Worthy master, H. E. Hayes, Oswego, Clackamas county; overseer, J. Voorhees, Woodburn, Marion county; lecturer, John Simpson, Siuslaw, Lane county; steward, J. W. Cook, McMinnville; assistant steward, W. A. Sample, Umatilla county; chaplain, David Ely, Goshen, Lane county; secretary, Mrs. M. J. Train, Albany; gate keeper, S. A. Dawson, Albany; Pomona, Mrs. R. P. Boise, Salem; Flora, Mrs. S. M. Cook, McMinnville; Ceres, Mrs. S. A. Dawson, Albany; lady assistant steward, Mrs. M. M. White, Polk county; member of executive committee, R. P. Boise, Salem.

Resolutions on food adulteration were presented, and on motion referred to the committee on good of the order.

ASSINABOINE CITY.

A Montana Town That is Booming Into Note.

HELENA, May 23.—The new town of Assinaboine City, just springing into life in the northern reservation, promises to grow to large proportions. Several of the enterprising business men are now in Helena, interviewing different parties relative to the foundation, building and improvement of that city. Some are purchasing a choice lot of whiskies and cigars, others talking up the land office business, while another, more enthusiastic, is figuring on the establishment of a system of water works and an electric light plant. A regular bus line and transfer is running daily between the fort depot and the city, and doing a lively business. A coal mine has been discovered near the burg, which produces a most excellent article, from which the city will be supplied with fuel.

THE WOMAN SUFFRAGE DECISION.

Judge Dennison Entertains a Poor Opinion of Judge Nash.

VANCOUVER, W. T., May 23.—Ex-Chief-Justice B. F. Dennison, one of the most eminent lawyers of the coast, for forty years a practicing attorney at the bar, was shown the opinion of Judge Nash of the Spokane Falls district, declaring unconstitutional the woman suffrage act of the last legislature of Washington territory. In an interview had, Judge Dennison says the decision of Judge Nash is a fine specimen of judicial imbecility and nonsense. It is a feeble attempt to imitate the decision in the Dred Scott case. The one decision is about as commendable as the other. Both contain more political claptrap than anything else.

FROM TACOMA.

A Recently Passed Law Decided to be Unconstitutional.

TACOMA, May 23.—At a meeting of the city council this evening, City Attorney Carroll's written opinion to the effect that the law passed by the last legislature especially for the benefit of Tacoma, providing for the establishment of assessment districts for street improvement, is invalid, and any work done must be done under the old charter provisions, was concurred in by the street committee.

The charter requires petitions for all street improvements to be signed by resident owners of more than one-half the abutting property. As property is owned on many streets by non-residents, this provision has greatly retarded street improvements, and the new law was passed to overcome it; but as that law declares that it does not conflict with the city charter, it is declared no good.

Carroll also gave an opinion, the question being referred to him, that if the city refused to accede to the proposed increased rates by the Tacoma Light & Water Company, and the company refused to furnish water in case of fire the water company would be liable for damages. The council, under this opinion, refused to pay more than the rate now charged.

THE SALMON RIVER MINES.

Ben Everett has returned to the city, after a six weeks' visit to the Salmon river mines. He brings glowing accounts of new discoveries, and specimens from a new mine which assays $3000 per ton.

SALEM ITEMS.

Escape of an Insane Woman—Supreme Court Record—Etc.

SALEM, May 23.—A female patient at the asylum, while out walking yesterday afternoon, with her ward, slipped away and has not been seen since. Search parties have gone north after her, it being supposed she has gone in that direction.

Articles of incorporation of the Alma Consolidated Gold Mining and Milling Company were to-day filed with the secretary of state; incorporators, B. Goldsmith, S. Goldsmith and Louis J. Goldsmith; principal office, Portland; capital stock, $1,000,000.

Two boys, Hayden Dick and Sheppard Hosier, last Saturday ran away from the Indian school at Chemawa. They belong to the Hoopa reservation in California, and it is supposed they have struck out in that direction.

SUPREME COURT.

F. P. Hembree et al., respondents, vs. I. R. Dawson et al., appellants; appeal from Yamhill county; argued and submitted on rehearing. W. D. Fenton and Milton W. Smith for appellants, McCain & Hurley and Sam Stott attorneys for respondents.

A. Bush, appellant, vs. August Giesy, respondent; appeal from Marion county; argued and submitted. Tilmon Ford and Wm. Kaiser attorneys for respondent. George H. Burnett and C. B. Bellinger attorneys for appellant.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Second Day's Session of the State Association.

ALBANY, Or., May 23.—The second day's session of the State Sunday School Association was opened this morning with a song service, and prayer by Rev. E. G. Wheeler of Portland.

Annual reports of officers, and short reports from counties and Sunday schools at large, were read, exhibiting a steady growth during the year.

The convention was then reviewed by Ethan W. Allen, of Portland, showing about fifty delegates present.

The afternoon session was opened with devotional exercises by Rev. W. W. Logan of Portland.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Rev. Ethan W. Allen, Portland; vice-president, Rev. J. Hoberg, Lafayette; secretary and treasurer, Rev. G. W. Hill, East Portland; statistical secretary, Prof. Henry Shiek, Philomath.

Short addresses were then delivered by G. F. Billings of Ashland, Rev. W. H. Landon of Portland, E. G. Wheeler of Portland, Mrs. E. G. Wheeler, and others.

The evening session was devoted to song service, followed by a lecture by Rev. D. Heagle of Princeton, Illinois.

WHATCOM ITEMS.

A Five Thousand Dollar Fire—Encouraging Prospects.

WHATCOM, W. T., May 23.—Elwood's shingle mill, near Blaine, was burned accidentally. Loss, $5000; no insurance.

There are excellent crop prospects.

A flood of new settlers are arriving in Whatcom county.

The Reveille has been awarded the county printing.

Heavy street grading contracts have been let at Whatcom to Bell & McDaniel.

OTHER COAST DISPATCHES.

Seattle News Items.

SEATTLE, W. T., May 23.—Brigadier-General George D. Hill, Adjutant-General R. G. O'Brien and Col. C. M. Anderson, as military board, to-day awarded the contract to a Cincinnati, Ohio, firm for making 500 dress uniforms for the National Guards of Washington territory. A contract at the same time was awarded for uniforms for the brigadier-general's staff, for four sets of colors, and guidon for the brigadier headquarters. The total contract amounts to $12,000.

Amy Santley, a serio-comic artist, fell down the back stairs at the Standard theater this evening, breaking both bones in her left arm above the wrist. Her nose was also broken and her face badly bruised, but her injuries are not serious.

A meeting of carpenters to-night declared in favor of the nine-hour movement, and to take a reduction of wages, if necessary, to inaugurate the scheme. Contractors will be given plenty of time to prepare for the change.

Spokane Falls Items.

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., May 23.—Judge Nash's woman suffrage decision is all the talk here to-day, but does not create much surprise among lawyers. Suffragists say if the decision is sustained by the supreme court, they will have to make the fight over again, and are confident of victory.

There was a small fire to-day in the rear of Charles Wilson's premises. The damage was slight. William Wilson, in returning from the fire, attempted to jump on the hook and ladder truck, but missed his footing and fell. The hind wheel passed over the small of his back, and it is feared he may not recover.

"Marvelous Spirit Manifestations."

SALT LAKE, May 23.—Special telegrams to Mormon papers here give a report of marvelous spirit manifestations alleged to have occurred during the endowment and dedication of a new temple at Manti. Among other things, it was said that Brigham Young and John Taylor appeared to the congregation.

Stocking Streams With Trout.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—All the trout at the United States breeding station on the McCloud river, California, have been turned loose into the public waters of this state. Beside the large trout which have so been disposed of a large number of young fish are being hatched, which, when they have arrived at proper age, will also be released into the McCloud river or its tributaries. There will probably be upward of 50,000 of these last.

Verdict for Small Damages.

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—In the case of Mrs. Mary Myers against the Central Pacific Railroad Company, to recover $7500 damages for injuries alleged to have been received by being thrown from a car which was started before she had stepped off, the jury to-night returned a verdict in her favor for $250.

The Stewart Will Case.

NEW YORK, May 23.—In the examination of the Stewart will case, Judge Hilton's private secretary testified that he thought that the first ten years after Mr. Stewart's death her income was about a million dollars. In the last year of her life he thought it was about half a million.

Unable to Agree.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—The jury in the case of Carl Lundquist, charged with the murder of Minnie Lohne, were discharged this afternoon, being unable to agree.

"The Alarm" to be Revived.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Anarchists will resume the publication of their propaganda, The Alarm. It will be transferred from Chicago to this city and printed in English. Herr Most and Henry London, an English anarchist, will have a hand in it.

Old Congress Hall Burned.

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—At a fire this morning the old Congress hall, of centennial fame, was destroyed. The building was of brick and four stories high. Several buildings adjoining were damaged.

Princeton Defeats Harvard.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 23.—The College lacrosse championship was won to-day by Princeton, beating Harvard by a score of two to one.

Shot on Target Duty.

FORT NIOBRARA, Neb., May 23.—Private Hoolahan, Company A, Eighth infantry, was fatally shot yesterday while on target duty.

Pullman reservations made for all points east via the Northern Pacific Railroad. Office, No. 2 Washington street.

Call and see the new styles for this season. Nicoll the tailor, 126 First street.

A NOTABLE RECEPTION.

Gathering of Northern and Southern Presbyterians.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND PRESENT.

He Makes a Speech, Recalling the Days of His Boyhood, When He, too, Was a Presbyterian—A Pleasant Event.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—The Presbyterian memorial assembly this morning heard a number of overtures from Presbyterians. One was for revision of the hymn book and another deprecated the publication of improper advertisements in the columns of church newspapers. Another, from the presbytery of Baltimore, was in regard to the use of the revised version of the Scriptures. The general assembly voted that, in view of the present unsettled opinion relating to the revised version, it was inexpedient to use it in public worship of the sanctuary.

Dr. McCosh presented the report of the judicial committee, and Rev. James Crawford, delegate from the Reformed church, delivered an address of salutation. The assembly broke into a double round of applause when he expressed the sentiment that the Reformed and Presbyterian churches might at some time be united.

Fraternal addresses were also delivered by delegates from the Lutheran Reformed and other churches.

This afternoon the general assembly will go to Overbrook, to meet members of the Southern general assembly, who will unite in to-morrow's joint celebration. President and Mrs. Cleveland will arrive at Overbrook at 4 P. M., to meet the two assemblies.

THE SOUTHERNERS WILL PARTICIPATE.

BALTIMORE, May 23.—The Presbyterian general assembly south resumed business at 9 o'clock. The case of Rev. Dr. Woodrow was postponed until after the return of the delegates from Philadelphia. A delegation from the general assembly of the Northern Presbyterian church, in session in Philadelphia, headed by Rev. Dr. McIntosh, was presented, and Dr. McIntosh invited the general assembly to participate to-morrow with the body he represents in the centennial celebration. Rev. Dr. Bullock accepted the invitation on the part of the assembly, which adjourned until 3 o'clock on Friday, and started for Philadelphia.

OFF FOR PHILADELPHIA.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The president and Mrs. Cleveland left Washington this morning for Philadelphia, to attend the Presbyterian anniversary. They will hold a reception at Overbrook this afternoon. The president will return to-morrow, but Mrs. Cleveland will remain with friends in Philadelphia for about a week.

A NOTABLE RECEPTION.

At Which the President Renews His Presbyterianism.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—The most interesting episode of the assembly thus far occurred this afternoon, when a reception, tendered jointly to the commissioners of the two general assemblies (Northern and Southern) by Mr. and Mrs. Wistar Morris, was held at their residence at Overbrook, near this city. President and Mrs. Cleveland were the guests of honor.

President and Mrs. Cleveland had already arrived at the Morris residence when the members of the general assembly got there. When Dr. Charles L. Thompson of the Northern assembly, and Dr. J. J. Bullock, the venerable moderator of the Southern assembly, greeted each other, there was a chorus of cheers, which were renewed when the visitors entered the grounds where the president and Mrs. Cleveland, host and hostess, and commissioners of the Northern assembly were waiting to receive them.

Congressmen Randolph Tucker of Virginia and Breckenridge of Kentucky were conspicuous among the Southern lay commissioners and were heartily recognized.

When the president and Mrs. Cleveland emerged from the house to the portico there was a burst of cheers from the big assemblage on the lawn.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT.

Morris introduced the president and Mrs. Cleveland in a brief address, and the president replied as follows:

I am very gratified at the opportunity here afforded me to meet the representatives of the Presbyterian church. Surely man never should lose his interest in the welfare of the church in which he was reared, and yet I will not find fault with any who deem it a sad confession made when I acknowledge that I must recall days now long past to find my closest relations to the grand and noble denomination which you represent. I say this because those of us who inherit fealty to our church, as I did, begin early to learn those things which make us Presbyterians all the days of our lives; and thus it is that the rigors of our early teaching, by which we are surrounded in our lasting alliance, are especially vivid, and perhaps best remembered. Attendance upon church service three times each Sunday and upon Sabbath school during the noon intermission, may be irksome enough to a boy of 10 or 12 years of age to be well fixed in his memory, but I have never known a man who regretted those things in the years of his maturity.

Speaking of these things, and in the presence of those here, the most tender thoughts crowd upon my mind, all connected with Presbyterianism and its teachings. There are present with me now memories of a kind and affectionate father, consecrated to the cause, and called to his rest and his reward in the midday of his usefulness; a sacred recollection of the prayers and pious love of a sainted mother, and a family circle hallowed and sanctified by the spirit of Presbyterianism.

I certainly cannot but express a wish and hope that the Presbyterian church will always be at the front in every movement which promises the temporal as well as spiritual advancement of mankind.

I am here to greet the delegates of the two general assemblies of the Presbyterian church. One is called "North" and the other "South." The subject is too deep and intricate for me, but I cannot help wondering why this should be. These words, so far as they denote separation and estrangement, should be obsolete. In the councils of the nation and in the business of the country, they no longer need reproach and antagonize. Even the soldiers who fought for the North and the South are restored to fraternity and unity. This fraternity and unity are taught and enjoined by our church. When shall she, herself, be united, with all the added strength and usefulnes that harmony and union insure?

FREQUENTLY APPLAUDED.

The president spoke with much earnestness, and in a clear, ringing voice that was heard all over the lawn. He was frequently applauded, and his references to the question of union and fellowship were greeted with cries of "Good," and "Hear, hear," from members of both assemblies.

Moderator Bullock offered prayer. The doxology was sung, and Moderator Thompson pronounced a benediction.

Then the members of both assemblies crowded up to the porch, and were separately introduced to the president and his wife, who greeted all with a shake of the hand.

A collation was served to the entire party, which numbered 800, after which the company came to Philadelphia in a special.

This evening a reception to the members of the assemblies was given in the Academy of Fine Arts. The president and Mrs. Cleveland were present and were accorded an ovation from the big crowd that filled the spacious edifice. The crush was tremendous. The president did not make a speech.

THE GERMAN BAPTISTS.

Brethren Must Trim Their Mustaches and Eschew Tobacco.

WABASH, Ind., May 23.—At the national German Baptist conference this morning a petition was tabled from districts in Nebraska and Illinois, asking the meeting to decide that church officers be elected by a majority instead of plurality vote, as heretofore.

A request was read that brethren who wore full beards trim back their mustaches, so that the salutation of the holy kiss may not be unpleasant. It was stated that the church's position on the mustache question was not calculated to produce harmony. A warm discussion followed, and the request was adopted. A request relating to the worldly fashion of wearing long hair was also adopted.

Some debate followed a proposition to change the name of the order, but it was decided to make no change.

All former decisions on tobacco using were reaffirmed, and abstention recommended. Adjourned.

THE ELECTION OF BISHOPS.

Three Out of the Four Vacancies Now Filled by the Conference.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Rev. J. W. Joyce, of Ohio, was elected the third bishop at the Methodist Episcopal conference this morning.

While the ballot for the fourth bishop was being counted, the committee on revisals reported changes in the discipline. The present tendency to introduce operatic and other "hifalutin" music in church service was deprecated, and an item relating to church music was amended, so as to make music committees amenable to the general conference.

Nine ballots for the fourth bishop were taken without an election. The candidates voted for were Doctors Newman, Goodsell, Cranston and Payne. The conference took a tenth ballot, but adjourned without the result being announced—probably no election. Dr. Newman, it is understood, has reached the limit of his strength, unless he can combine with Dr. Goodsell.

THE FIRST TWO.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Of the two first Methodist bishops elected, Dr. Fitzgerald was born in Newark, N. J., 49 years ago, and is one of the soundest logicians and most eloquent preachers in the Methodist church. Rev. J. W. Vincent was born in Tuscaloosa, Ala., in 1832, and has been identified with church publications for many years. He if a successful pastor, an accomplished scholar, and a versatile editor and orator.

PREACHERS CANNOT BE IMPORTED.

Decision in the Noted Trinity Church Case of New York.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 23.—Judge Wallace, in the United States circuit court yesterday, decided the famous case of Rev. Dr. E. Walpole, who arrived from England recently, as rector of Trinity church, New York, on a contract by which he was paid $6000 salary. The provisions of the contract labor act were declared to be involved. The judge decided against the preacher, holding that only actors could come from a foreign land on a contract for labor.

WILL GO TO THE SUPREME COURT.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The case of Rector Walpole, of the church of Holy Trinity, of this city, who was imported under contract, is likely to go to the supreme court at Washington. The counsel for the church corporation says the church will not pay the $1000 fine, but will argue the case on pleadings, and as a last resort go to the supreme court.

The United Presbyterian Church.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., May 23.—The thirtieth general assembly of the United Presbyterian church of North America convened this evening. Nearly 200 delegates from all portions of the United States, Canada and some foreign countries are present. Rev. M. M. Gibson, of San Francisco, preached the opening sermon. Ten synods, sixty-one Presbyteries belong to the assembly. Dr. W. T. Malony, of Chicago, was unanimously elected moderator.

A Bishop Appointed.

DETROIT, May 23.—A cable from Rome says: Rev. Dr. John S. Foley, of Baltimore, was yesterday appointed to succeed Rev. Casper H. Bargess as bishop of the Detroit diocese.

The Arkansas Flood.

VAN BUREN, Ark., May 23.—Heavy rains have washed out 10,000 feet of bridging near Mountain bay. At Chester a sixteen-stall round house was swept away. At Windsor guests of the Wyoes hotel had to wade through water and take refuge in a box car, as the foundations of the hotel were sinking. All bridges are unsafe and no trains have arrived for the past four days. Crops and fences were washed away wherever the rain clouds burst.

Shocking Domestic Tragedy.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 23.—Late this afternoon Wm. J. McFarland, quarreled with his wife, while under the influence of liquor. In his fury he drew a revolver, shot his wife and three-year old daughter, and then shot himself. All will die. The family was a happy one until a month ago, when the eldest child died. This affected McFarland greatly, and ever since he has been drinking hard, and been very ugly.

Trains Wrecked.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 23.—Early this morning a freight train on the Rock Island went through a bridge near Randolph Point, crashing into a ravine twenty-five feet deep. A short time after a freight train on the Hannibal & St. Joe road went through a bridge adjoining the Rock Island track and which had been weakened by the first wreck. Two engineers, a fireman and two tramps were killed.

In Favor of the Bell Company.

NEW YORK, May 23.—In the United States circuit court to-day Judge Wallace rendered a decision in the suit of the American Bell Telephone Company against the Universal Dynamophone Company, for infringement of telephone patents. An injunction in favor of the Bell Company was granted, and an accounting was ordered.

Failure of Magazine Publishers.

ROCHESTER, May 23.—The Schlict & Field Company publishers of the Cosmopolitan magazine have failed. Their liabilities are over $301,000, and their assets $84,000. They claim to have sunk $130,000 in the Cosmopolitan. Many articles by Pacific coast writers have appeared in the columns of this magazine.

A Cowardly Crime.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 23.—Scully's filly Hypocrite, who was the favorite for yesterday's Oaks, and lost, was found last night to have been poisoned. Physicians have been at work ever since; but it is doubtful if she can be saved. There is much talk over the affair.

Dom Pedro Better.

MILAN, May 23.—The emperor of Brazil is slightly better this morning.

MILAN, May 23.—The condition of Dom Pedro is slightly improved. The paralytic symptoms are lessening.

A Costly Strike.

PITTSBURG, May 23.—The Black Diamond strike cost the Knights of Labor $168,000.

HOW IT IS DONE.

The Restoration of the Body to its Normal Condition is the Secret of Success in the Treatment of all Diseases.

An eminent scientist, recently discussing the principle of health, makes the assertion that electricity or magnetism is not only the origin but the perpetuation of life, and that a want of electricity in the human organism gives place for disease and decay. He says that the restoration to a normal electrical condition of the body is the great secret of success of the electrical system of medicine practiced by the Drs. Darrin of Seattle and Portland, who have been enabled by its means to effect wonderful cures where the use of all known drugs has proved a failure. This theory is fully verified in practice by the following testimonials:

To the Portland Public.

Mr. Editor: I am not in the habit of puffing advertising doctors, but the almost miraculous cure of my son prompts me in doing so. Last July his eyes became inflamed and finally resulted in a white growth covering one eye and greatly intercepting the sight of the other. After repeated failures with ordinary medical treatment, I took my son to Drs. Darrin last October. In six weeks his eyesight was perfect, and cured without the knife or powerful and disagreeable medicines. The cure was performed by soothing medicines and the electro-magnetic system. He was also cured of catarrh of long standing. Refer to me at 204½ Fourth st., Portland.

J. F. HURD.

Deafness Cured in Ten Minutes.

Mr. Editor: For seven years I have been gradually growing deaf in both ears, accompanied by ringing sounds and headaches, much to my discomfort. I called on Dr. Darrin, and he said he could cure one ear in ten minutes and the other in six months. I paid his fee, and in less than ten minutes I was perfectly cured of my deafness and the sounds all disappeared in my right ear. I can be referred to at Adams, Oregon.

J. F. PEEBLER.

Polypus and Catarrh Cured.

Dr. Darrin—Sir: Please accept my thanks for curing my boy of catarrh and polypus in the nose of long standing. Also my young daughter was cured of a tumor. Refer to me at Vancouver, W. T., next door east of the court house.

MRS. L. E. HARMON.

Office Hours and Place of Business.

The doctors can be consulted at 235 Fifth st., cor. Main, Portland, and International hotel, Seattle, W. T., from 10 to 4 daily; evenings, 7 to 8; Sundays, 10 to 12. All curable chronic diseases, loss of manhood, blood taints, syphilis, gleet, gonorrhœa, stricture, spermatorrhœa, seminal weakness or loss of desire of sexual power in man or woman, catarrh and deafness, are confidentially and successfully treated. Cures of private diseases guaranteed. Circulars sent free. Most cases can receive home treatment after a visit at the Doctors' office.

[illegible] METHODIST BISHOPS.

[illegible] Is Known in This City of Two of Them.

[illegible] Sketch of Isaac W. Joyce—The Founder and President of the Chautauqua Circle Honored.

[illegible] Methodists of this city have been in- [illegible] as deeply as their brethren in other [illegible] the proceedings of the general Meth- [illegible] conference and particularly in the bal- [illegible] for bishops. Early yesterday after- [illegible] several prominent members of the [illegible] called at the Evening Telegram office [illegible] for "election" news, too much in- [illegible] to wait till the publication hour. [illegible] here seemed to favor Dr. New- [illegible] and many would have been glad to see [illegible] elected. To give the Portland breth- [illegible] the information obtainable concern- [illegible] three new bishops, THE OREGONIAN [illegible] reporter last evening to interview [illegible] Methodist ministers here. Dr. [illegible] was not at home. Dr. Alfred [illegible], pastor of Taylor street church, [illegible] the reporter's inquiries, said:

[illegible] know Mr. Joyce well, and I confess I was [illegible] surprised to hear of his selection. He [illegible] what in politics would be known as [illegible] horse. Isaac W. Joyce is a man about 50 [illegible] of age, and has been in Cincinnati for a [illegible] of years. He is not what you could call a [illegible] teacher. He is, however, a man of much [illegible] ability, and is a polished and even a [illegible] speaker. When at Green Castle, Ind., he [illegible] large class in rhetoric, made up of [illegible] of the DePauw University located at [illegible]. Mr. Joyce was born in Indiana. [illegible] first charges was the Trinity M. E. [illegible] at Lafayette, Ind., where he remained as [illegible] three years. He then served as the pre- [illegible] of the Lafayette district for four [illegible] after which he was pastor of the Ninth [illegible] church at Lafayette for three years more. [illegible] then called to the College Avenue church [illegible] castle, and from there to St. Paul's [illegible] Cincinnati, where after a three years' [illegible] he took charge of Trinity church in the [illegible], and at the close of his term was again [illegible] St. Paul's church, where he still is. He [illegible] some prominence when he was a fra- [illegible] delegate to the Canadian Methodist general [illegible] held at Toronto last year.

[illegible] Joyce was here last summer on a visit. He [illegible] at Salem. I saw him at the Northwestern [illegible] Conference, last fall, and at Greencastle, [illegible] he told me all about California and Oregon. [illegible] states had made a most favorable im- [illegible] on him.

[illegible] Vincent I don't know so well, but he is a [illegible] world-wide reputation, as the originator [illegible] founder of the Chautauqua idea, and is the [illegible] of the famous society of that name. He [illegible] gained more prominence as the president of [illegible] Chautauqua Assembly than anything else he [illegible] done, but for that matter, that was a life- [illegible]. Vincent is a very fine orator, a magnifi- [illegible] one of the most brilliant in [illegible]. He has also attained some reputa- [illegible] lecturer. He is the president of the Sun- [illegible] and Union, having the management of all [illegible] provided for the schools. Mr. Vincent [illegible] editor of the Methodist paper Our Youth, [illegible] at New York. He is a man, I should [illegible] about 55 years old.

[illegible] Hammer knew nothing of Rev. J. W. [illegible], the third bishop elected.

CARELESS FISHERMEN.

[illegible] They Display No Lights and Spread Their Nets in Steamers' Paths.

[illegible]standing much has been written re- [illegible] regarding the law which requires fish- [illegible] small boats to display a light after [illegible] a signal and a precaution for safety, [illegible] constantly violated. Persons from down [illegible]mbia state that a great many boats [illegible] after dark and do not pretend to con- [illegible] the requirements of the law. Every [illegible] is required by the law to place a [illegible] in the bow of his boat, or [illegible] above the bow, on a staff [illegible] less than two feet high, [illegible] way the light is conspicuous and can [illegible] be seen. As a matter of safety to [illegible] in the boats the rule should be com- [illegible]. Steamers plying about the lower [illegible] after night are liable any minute to [illegible] these small boats, where no lights [illegible] played, and drown men. At this [illegible] of the year scores and hundreds of [illegible] are out during the dark hours [illegible] nets and watching them. The [illegible] most careful pilot in the world can- [illegible] where these boats are without some [illegible], and, therefore, should not be held re- [illegible] for serious or fatal accident under [illegible] circumstances.

[illegible] subject the law is very specific and [illegible] no damages can be collected from any [illegible] pilot who runs down a boat, the [illegible] which neglects to display a light at [illegible]. Many of the fishermen when they [illegible] steamer coming simply hold up a light [illegible] hand as a signal, instead of having [illegible] as required. Some fishermen [illegible] display a light at all, and while out [illegible] nets often fall asleep in their boats [illegible] with fatigue. Under these circum- [illegible] it seems strange that more casualties [illegible] happen.

[illegible] there is much complaint among [illegible] and steamboat men in reference to [illegible] carelessness of fishermen in spreading [illegible]. Very frequently they have nets [illegible] across the channel, so that boats [illegible] pass up or down without cutting [illegible] pieces. In this particular the fisher- [illegible] exceedingly heedless, and are very [illegible] nets are destroyed. A short [illegible] as one of the river pilots was [illegible] deeply loaded vessel down [illegible] he came to a point where [illegible] stretched across the river leaving [illegible] for the ship and tow to pass. A [illegible] stood up in his boat and kept [illegible] his hand and shouting for the pilot [illegible] near an island and steer clear of [illegible] nets. As the ship was drawing [illegible] two feet of water, and the fisher- [illegible] the pilot to go where there was [illegible] feet, the nets had to suffer. [illegible] are said to be very careful, and do [illegible] destroy the property. One [illegible] few days ago, while going down [illegible] with a ship, he found the river be- [illegible] rock and Tongue point fairly [illegible] with small boats. It was near night- [illegible] rather than run through the many [illegible] concluded to come to anchor and [illegible] all night to give the fishermen [illegible]

When arrested he was perfectly sober, but on the way to jail he became suddenly and conveniently drunk. Several small articles have mysteriously disappeared from the hotel lately and Webb is supposed to be the thief who charled them off.

DELAYED MATTERS SETTLED.

The Immigration Board Consider a Number of Propositions.

The Sum of $6000 Set Aside for Eastern Newspaper Advertising—Assistance for F. J. Strayer—Meetings Twice a Week.

A special meeting of the immigration board was held at 3 P. M. yesterday to consider several delayed matters held over from previous meetings.

Payment of $7 50 for fifty copies of the Northwest Magazine was ordered.

The proposition of F. A. Kenny, manager of The Evening Telegram, to furnish the board with 50,000 copies of a special edition descriptive of Portland and resources for the sum of $750, was referred to a special committee consisting of Arnold, Baird and Cohen, with instructions to report at next meeting.

The proposition of E. Clayson to represent the board permanently on Puget sound was laid on the table to await future action.

Capt. D. E. Buchanan addressed the board and kindly offered to distribute Oregon literature in Cincinnati during the forthcoming session of the supreme lodge Knights of Pythias, in consideration of his transportation. The board, although favorably disposed toward the offer, were compelled to decline the same, owing to lack of funds.

The propositions of J. G. Warner and Harry Penrod, of similar import to the preceding, were also declined for the same reason.

Messrs. Larsen & Hoag submitted a proposition to insert three columns of descriptive matter, to be furnished by the board, in a forthcoming Scandinavian newspaper for the sum of $50 per issue. On motion of Oliphant the board voted to tender the gentlemen $25 for three columns in their first issue.

A. C. A. Perkes proposed to print 25,000 extra copies of the state weather report to be distributed by the Wisconsin Central line providing the board would appropriate therefor the sum of $105; declined.

Mr. Baird, having in mind the judicious husbanding of the board's resources, moved that the sum of $6000 be set aside for the special purpose of advertising in the Eastern newspapers when the proper time should come; carried.

Mr. Oliphant moved that hereafter no appropriation aside from the regular current expenses of the board should be made until considered at two meetings; carried.

A communication was read from Rev. F. J. Strayer, setting forth the work he had been engaged in in Pennsylvania in organizing Oregon colonies and asking to be regularly employed by the board at a stipulated salary. In view of the fact that Mr. Strayer has accomplished visible results and is somewhat pressed for assistance, a proposition to pay him the sum of $25 was favorable considered and referred to next meeting for final approval.

F. J. Parker, on behalf of the New York Graphic, offered to issue a four-page illustrated supplement in the interest of Portland for the sum of $1000 or 100 yearly subscribers; declined.

T. W. Reilly, of the St. Paul Journal of Commerce, submitted a proposition to sell the board 500 or 1000 copies of his forthcoming Portland issue for 5 cents per copy; consideration deferred until sample copies of the proposed issue were inspected by the board.

C. E. Dickey, of the Sault Ste Marie Company, Minneapolis, submitted estimate, aggregating $5140, of an advertising and excursion scheme, to be engineered by himself; declined.

The proposition of G. H. Hodgdon to advertise Oregon by stereopticon views was, on motion, laid on table.

Proposition of Chautauqua Farm and Vineyard, Westfield, N. Y., to insert one column of matter descriptive of Oregon for the sum of $10 per issue was declined.

Communication from John E. Sundstrom, Omaha, asking as to opportunities for cooperating with parties or corporations here in a large immigration and land colonization scheme was referred to Messrs. Wood and Waddel on behalf of the real estate interests.

Proposition from J. W. Robie, Duluth, Minn., to represent board in that section; declined.

On motion of Mr. Arnold, the printing committee was instructed to order the printing of 100,000 additional folders, the previous issues of 200,000 being exhausted.

On motion of Mr. Cohen, the remaining copies of the State Weather Report in the hands of the board were ordered delivered to George S. Batty, of the Wisconsin Central line, for distribution.

Mr. Oliphant moved that the special meetings of the board be hereafter held at 4 P. M. on Tuesday and Friday of each week; carried. Adjourned.

PERSONAL.

Mr. H. C. Wilmarth, of Vancouver, W. T., was in the city yesterday.

Mr. Edward Cookingham and bride return this morning from their wedding tour.

Mr. Henry B. Thielsen and family, of Derry, are visiting Mr. H. Thielsen here.

Mr. D. Marx and wife arrived at Paris on Tuesday. They will return in September.

Mr. Warner Brayman, of Salem, was in the city yesterday on his way to Dayton, W. T., where he is interested in the banking business.

Mr. John Burke returned yesterday from British Columbia. He says the Juvenile opera troupe have played a most successful engagement over there, and are now going to San Francisco.

Mr. Henry M. Mackie, who is employed at Thompson, DeHart & Co.'s, has been quite ill at his residence, No. 273 Salmon, for some days. His many friends will be pleased to learn of his rapid convalescence.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren, of Portland, stopped over Sunday in Roseburg, the guest of Mrs. Compton, with whom they crossed the plains in pioneer days. They were en route to Bly, Lake county, to visit their daughter, Mrs. Jesse Waters.—Roseburg Review.

NOT TRUE BILLS.

The grand jury returned not a true bill yesterday in the case of John Murphy, charged with stealing $21 from James Barry. David Davies, charged with stealing a breastpin from Mrs. Lou Owens, was also exonerated, much to the surprise of the police officials. Davies is the fellow who was supposed to have been implicated in a bank robbery or some such thing in Kansas or Ohio, where he sailed under the name of Schrader. Jailer Woods says that no prisoner has caused more trouble in the past two years than Davies.

WIFE MURDERER PARDONED.

On Condition That He Will Go and Drink No More.

TOPEKA, May 23.—A pardon has been issued by Governor Martin to Charles B. Rotrock, who killed his wife a number of years ago, while under the influence of liquor. A peculiar feature of the pardon is that the governor issued it upon the condition that Rotrock will forever abstain from the use of intoxicating liquor. Such a condition has never before been imposed by a governor of this state, but the attorney-general advised the governor that the condition would be sustained by the court.

EASTERN DISPATCHES.

Villard's Proposition to the Transcontinental.

A CHAPTER OF TRAIN ACCIDENTS.

A Sunday-School Worker to be Tried for Boodleism—A Chicago Firm Wrecked by a Dishonest Partner.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Following is the full text of Henry Villard's circular, sent to the stockholders of the Oregon & Transcontinental Company with Villard's name attached, asking for proxies to make him president again:

Last August I was enabled through the confidence of my German business friends, to render your company financial aid to the extent of $5,000,000, at a critical period of its affairs. The result of this intervention was that I was requested, at the time, by your directors and by many of the largest individual stockholders, to again become president of your company. I declined then because I was expected to assist financially some corporations in which your company holds large stock interests. This assistance having now been rendered to those corporations, I feel called upon, as founder of your company, and from a sense of duty to you, to aid, to the full extent of my power, in securing more satisfactory results in future for you as stockholders. I am authorized to state that for this purpose I have obtained the co-operation of foreign capital which I represent, and my friends, in evidence of my intention to infuse new life in the company, have already acquired a large interest in your stock. In behalf, therefore, of them, and of all my friends who are interested in your stock, and of myself personally, I respectfully request your co-operation in our proposed efforts for rehabilitation of the Oregon & Transcontinental Company.

Villard requests that proxies for the election be sent to Sidney Dillon, W. L. Hall or Charles L. Colby. These gentlemen, together with Brayton Ives and Colgate Hoyt, add an appendix to the circular, approving of Villard's determination, and recommending stockholders to comply with the request.

A CHAPTER OF TRAIN ACCIDENTS.

In Which Four Men are Killed, and Several Badly Hurt.

KANSAS CITY, May 23.—About five miles from here, the Wabash and the Hannibal & St. Joe tracks run parallel. Last night a terrific rain washed away a bridge over a ravine. Early this morning a Rock Island freight train came around a curve and plunged into the ditch. Brakeman Royston was instantly killed. Brakeman Armstrong went ahead to flag the Hannibal freight, and walked along the Wabash track by mistake. The Wabash freight dashed around the curve and struck him, killing him instantly. The train rushed on, and dropped on the wreck of the Rock Island train. The bodies of two dead men, supposed to be tramps, were taken out from the Wabash wreck. Engineer McClellan, of the Wabash train, Ben Morris, a negro train hand, and John Snyder, a Rock Island fireman, were seriously hurt, perhaps fatally. The pecuniary loss will be very heavy.

SEVEN LIVES LOST.

It now appears that seven lives were lost in the wreck. Ben. Norris, a negro who was fatally injured, says an old man and his son were in a box car with him, and they have not yet been accounted for. There is also said to be another tramp buried in the ruins. Two hundred men are at work clearing away the debris.

A SENSATION IN COURT.

A Sunday School Worker to be Fired for Boodleism.

CHICAGO, May 23.—There was another sensational scene in the Welch jury bribery case to-day, when the prosecution closed its side of the case with a motion that Welch be required to give bail for his appearance in court when the trial is resumed Monday.

"We shall also ask the court," continued the attorneys, "to hold Sumner C. Welch, C. B. Holmes and Wm. Starkey to the grand jury on a criminal charge of conspiring to defeat the ends of justice."

This created a great commotion in court. The court fixed Welch's bail at $5000, but said nothing as to the other matter. C. B. Holmes is superintendent of the Chicago City Railway Company, which controls an extensive south side cable road system, and is well known throughout the East for his connection with Sunday school work and philantropism. Welch was the agent who made a business of settling claims against the company, and it is charged that he and Starkey, an attorney, have been engaged in bribing juries in suits brought against the railway company. The prosecuting attorneys claim that all this was done with Holmes's consent and connivance.

HEAVY EMBEZZLEMENT.

A Chicago Firm Wrecked by a Dishonest Partner.

CHICAGO, May 23.—Liberman & Co., wholesale men's furnishing goods house, confessed judgments for $10,000 this morning, and the sheriff took possession of the store. No statement of the affairs of the firm has yet been made, but it is stated to-night that the failure is due to embezzlement of $48,000 by one of the firm. Sam. D. Levy, junior partner, is the accused member. When Liberman, Sr., died a few years ago, his son made Levy, who was then bookkeeper, a partner and manager. Young Liberman was on the road most of the time, and supposed his affairs were in a prosperous condition until a few days ago when he received a note from a clerk, saying, Levy, who had gone to New York temporarily, was systematically robbing the establishment.

Liberman had the books examined by an expert and on Levy's return confronted him with the result. Levy has now disappeared but supposed to be in the custody of detectives. Liberman has also disappeared and no statement can be had other than the above, which is furnished by the chief clerk in the house.

A DARING JOURNEY.

From Colorado to the Gulf of California in a Boat.

DENVER, May 23.—Special from Greenwood Springs, Col.: Some weeks ago Carr Bros. conceived the idea of making a novel and exciting excursion this summer, which for boldness has seldom been equaled. They propose starting from this point and go by water to the gulf of California. The route is down the Roaring Fork to the Grand, through Utah and Arizona, and then into Mexico on the Colorado river. Some of the grandest canyon scenery in the world is to be seen along the route, notably Cataract canyon in Utah, and Marble and Grand canyons, in Arizona. Owing to the many rapids, the trip will be a continual round of danger and excitement.

A boat has been built for the trip specially, and is very strong. In shape it resembles a torpedo boat, the forward part being covered with a light decking, to protect the provisions and ammunition. Air-tight compartments are arranged in several places, to prevent sinking in case of accident.

The Carr brothers expect to take several weeks for the trip, and will fish and hunt when opportunity offers. If nothing occurs to prevent, the start will be made to-morrow evening.

THE BUTCHERS.

They Hurl the Cleaver at a Number of Growing Evils.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—The National Butchers' Protective Association reconvened this morning. The Butterworth bill was endorsed, and congress asked to pass it soon.

The question of lard adulteration was then taken up. It was decided to continue the agitation of the question before congress until a law is passed prohibiting the sale of adulterated lard; or, if its sale be allowed, that it be branded as such.

A resolution was adopted directing local associations of each state to see that bills are introduced in legislatures to the end that it shall be unlawful to expose, sell or offer for sale, any dressed beef or other fresh meats, unless said dressed beef is fresh, and meats shall be inspected alive within the limits of each state. This appears to be intended as a deathblow to the western dressed beef companies.

A local committee of three appointed to prepare a paper against beef monopolies, submitted a lengthy and vehement report. The committee style the cattle pool of Chicago as "the most infamous [illegible] ever existed in the United States." [illegible] report goes on to say: "We think [illegible] the worst combination in the country is that of pork and adulterated lard packers. They have no equal in the Standard oil trust, sugar trust, copper trust, or any other trust. They have had a powerful influence over our business for years. The prices of cattle to the producer have gone down 50 per cent., and the price to consumers has increased, and every dollar of difference has gone into the pocket of the combination." The report concluded with an injunction to strive for the inspection bill.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Louisville Races.

Baseball.

PITTSBURG, May 23.—The game to-day was played in a cold rain, against the wishes of the visitors and the umpire. The Washingtons won by hard work and good playing, although in the eighth it looked as though Pittsburg would catch them. Only 500 people saw the game. Score, Washington 5, Pittsburg 4.

CHICAGO, May 23.—The new California pitcher, Borchers, was in the box to-day, and proved a formidable opponent to the Phillies until the eighth inning, when three good hits and a base on balls were made off him. The Chicagos hit Gleason pretty hard throughout. Chicago 7, Philadelphia 4.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23.—The batting of the home team was good, but the Bostons' fielders were sharp and prevented the score from being tied. Denny's work was fine, he making two home runs. Score: Indianapolis 4, Boston 5.

DETROIT, May 23.—Superior batting on the part of the home team won to-day's game for them. Their fielding was poor and errors were numerous. The game was not interesting. Detroit 13, New York 5.

CLEVELAND, May 22.—Cincinnati 6, Cleveland 5.

BROOKLYN, May 23.—Brooklyn 3, Kansas City 7.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—The Baltimore-American game was postponed owing to rain.

BIDS FOR BRIDGES ON PUBLIC ROADS—Bids will be received at the office of the county clerk of Multnomah county until Wednesday, the 6th day of June, 1888, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the construction of and for sealed plans, specifications and strain diagrams for two (2) bridges, as follows: Both to be constructed near the nine-mile post (and near the residence of John Watts) on the road leading from Portland to St. Helens. The plans and specifications prepared by the supervisor of the road district wherein the said bridges are to be constructed, now on file at the county clerk's office, are preferred by the county court as the plans and specifications. Each bidder shall deposit with his bid 5 per cent. of the amount of such bid. The right to reject any and all bids is reserved. By order of the board of county commissioners. WM. CHURCH, JR.,
15m20 County Clerk Multnomah Co., Oregon.

NOTICE OF RECEIVER'S SALE—NOTICE IS hereby given that pursuant to a decree of the circuit court of the United States for the district of Oregon, entered April 21, 1888, in a cause therein pending wherein Albert G. Bogert et. al. are plaintiffs and Joseph Holladay, executor, substituted for Ben. Holladay, deceased, et. al., are defendants, the undersigned, receiver therein, will offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash, in Portland, Multnomah county, Oregon, at the door of the county court house of said county, at 10 o'clock A. M. of Thursday, May 31, 1888, ten thousand, being all the shares of the capital stock of the Oregon Real Estate Company. The stock will be offered for sale in lots of five hundred shares each, and will be sold to the highest bidders respectively, upon this understanding and condition, to-wit: That after the stock has been old off in lots as aforesaid the stock will be offered for sale in one lot of ten thousand shares, and will be sold to the highest bidder therefor, in case his bid for the stock as a whole exceeds the aggregate amount of the bids for the stock when offered in lots as aforesaid; but if the bid for the stock as a whole does not exceed the aggregate amount of the bids for the stock when offered in lots as aforesaid, then the stock will be declared sold to the respective bidders for the several lots of stock.
Dated Portland, Oregon, April 24, 1888.
G. G. GAMMANS, Receiver.

The property owned by the Oregon Real Estate Company, and which is represented by the stock of said company to be sold as above set forth, consists principally of about fourteen hundred lots, fifty by one hundred feet each, situated in the choicest residence portion of the city of East Portland. That part of the property adjacent to the eastern terminus of the new iron bridge between Portland and East Portland will soon be desirable for business purposes, while the high level land extending for a mile back from the river offers chances for homes that will be eagerly seized upon when the land is offered for sale in lots and blocks. A year ago three of the leading real estate dealers of Portland appraised this property at over a half million of dollars, and since then it has advanced considerably in value. This stock is to be sold to pay off $350,000 claims against the estate of Ben Holladay. 24a35

This Beautiful Property is Now Offered For Sale

In Small Tracts, at a Cheap Price and Easy Payments.

The special features of this property are its situation, within three miles of the city, on the west bank of the Willamette river, on an elevated plateau, commanding a most extensive and charming view of the city and surrounding country.

ACCESSIBILITY. Being on the west side, the river is not to cross to get at it. The macadamized road runs through the property, and is the finest, best kept and most romantic drive out of the city. The narrow-gauge railroad company will commence 21st May to run nine trains per day each way, at such hours and such a low rate as will accommodate all classes of people. Steamboats are constantly plying on the river, and will carry passengers to and from Palatine Hill landing according to their respective time schedules. This is, without doubt, the most accessible suburban property within reach of all classes of Portland's citizens.

WATER. A plentiful supply of pure water is obtained on every lot.

HEALTHFULNESS. It is above the fog line and free from malaria. For healthfulness it cannot be beat.

CHEAPNESS. It is laid out in tracts of two acres and upwards, and can be bought for from $100 to $1000 per acre, according to location. One acre of the most choice portion can be purchased for less one-third the price of one ordinary residence lot in the city.

Investors will be taken and shown the property, and all information given on application to

ALL PRICES LOWER.

The staple of the argument addressed by the democratic orators to the farmers and herdsmen of Oregon is that the protective duty on wool, instead of giving the wool-grower a better price for his product, actually reduces the price; and in proof of this tables are presented showing that wool formerly bore a higher price under a low tariff than it now bears under a high one.

The fact is that wool, years ago, bore a higher price the world over than it does now. The decline of wool in the markets of the United States in recent years bears a close relation to the decline of the same staple in the general markets of the world. That is, the values of wool in our markets are affected largely by incidents apart from our tariff laws. Whatever our own tariff laws are, we cannot escape the influence of the markets of the world.

Hence it is that THE OREGONIAN has always doubted whether our wool-growers were receiving as much benefit from the protective system as many of them suppose. But it does not go to the extreme of supposing that the prices are made actually less by protection. This assertion of many free traders contradicts the fundamental argument for free trade, namely, that a protective duty is laid on expressly for the purpose of enhancing the price of the home product.

Of course, if the duty is taken off and the country allows absolute free trade in wool, importations of wool from foreign countries will greatly increase. This is the statement used to commend the Mills bill to our Eastern manufacturers. Wool-growers and all others will judge for themselves whether these largely increased importations of foreign wool will be likely to reduce or enhance the prices obtainable for the home product. Common sense shows that the importations will reduce them.

While wool, because it has declined in price all over the world during the last ten or twenty years, is now lower in the United States under the protective than it previously was under the free trade system, the same is true of all the other staples of our markets. It is true of sugar, of glass, of iron and iron products, of textile fabrics, of furniture, of clothing, and of all the principal articles that contribute to the comfort of civilized life. The reason is that during the last quarter of a century production throughout the world has increased at a rate more rapid than ever before. Productive industry, assisted by inventive genius, during this period has made unprecedented strides. To the discovery and use of means to kill that parasitic pest and destroyer of sheep known as "the scab," is due no small part of the increase of the world's supply of wool.

Against the controlling forces that steadily increase the world's supply of all commodities and tend thereby to depress prices, no protective duty can hold prices up to the level of former times. But it is wholly misleading to assert that the home price of a commodity is lessened rather than enhanced by a protective duty; for this contradicts a fundamental principle of free trade, namely, that a protective duty always enhances the price; and, moreover, applied to the case before us, it assumes that large importations of foreign wool free of duty would not reduce the price of the home product, but increase it, than which nothing could be more absurd.

HISTORY'S MOST IMPRESSIVE LESSON.

The New York World says: "The democracy of New York has distinguished itself by selecting a citizen of African descent as alternate delegate-at-large to the St. Louis convention. His name is Matthews and he hails from Albany. He is a particular and personal friend of President Cleveland." Yet Cleveland, if he could, would have kept Matthews and his race in slavery for evermore. The needs of politics have recently made it desirable for Cleveland to show some interest in colored men for the sake of their votes. Hence here and there he has tried to attach a "nigger" to his party by offers of official position. Matthews is one of those thus bought up by Cleveland (there are shabby fellows among all races); and this is how Matthews comes to be "a particular and personal friend of President Cleveland." Fortunately for such as Matthews, and fortunately for justice, humanity and civilization, the horrible system that Cleveland supported and the overthrow of which he resisted falsely in the name of liberty, did not stand; otherwise Matthews, instead of perfuming himself for a democratic convention and making ready to eat roast turkey and drink champagne with delegates appointed to nominate Cleveland, might now be in a cotton or tobacco field under the slave driver's whip and living on the slave's ration of a peck of corn and two pounds of bacon a week.

One of the most impressive lessons of history is the fact that in the cause of humanity and civilization the baser instincts and passions of men are often converted into powerful instruments of human progress. Many thinkers put the statement in even stronger terms. "The whole tendency of political economy and philosophical history," says Lecky, "which reveal the physiology of society, is to show that the happiness and welfare of mankind are evolved much more from our selfish than from what are termed our virtuous acts." It is certain, indeed, that under the all-prevailing and over-ruling spirit of moral progress, a spirit wholly independent of the will of wicked or mistaken men, there is a principle that makes men's baser natures do the work of humanity and civilization and righteousness. Thus, the arrogance, violence and inhumanity of the democratic party in the South and its utter moral insensibility in the North overthrew slavery against the will of the party in both sections of the Union; and now its eagerness to get votes in the close Northern states leads it to make much of every "nigger" it can capture, and thereby to assist in placing on firmer grounds political rights which, in one-half the Union, it actually denies.

But the right deduction from this most tremendous fact of human history is not that they who, through base or wicked motives and methods, unconsciously do so much for the moral advancement and physical well-being of the race are worthy of as much honor as they who do their work from nobler motives. History always makes this distinction; its lessons are lessons of justice; wrong cannot subsidize it nor buy its final verdict. The impressive fact of all facts is this, namely, that the great movement of justice and righteousness goes on with momentum powerfully increased by the very means employed to stop it, as a great river makes its way with increasing force and violence when efforts are made to obstruct its course.

Jay Gould, like many other so-called "smart" men, is surprisingly weak in spots. When the New York Herald discussed the charges brought against Gould in connection with the Kansas Pacific trust, Gould answered by a public letter to James Gordon Bennett, in which he charged him with having a number of years ago drank more wine than was good for him at a banquet and with boisterous behavior on the streets while under the influence of liquor. This was a very stupid answer to a newspaper charge of malfeasance in the administration of a great corporate business trust. Mr. Gould evidently thinks that a man who has ever been too full of wine at dinner is worse than a thief, and in this idiotic conviction he is supported by [illegible] and private utterances of "third party" prohibition evangelists great and small. As a matter of fact the baleful example of Mr. Gould's successful sober scoundrelism has worked more harm to the present generation than that of many drunkards, for a drunkard is so repulsive and disreputable an object lesson of disgrace, weakness and decay, that he is personally a solemn and effective warning, as well as a frightful example, while sober Mr. Gould's successful manipulation of the forces of commercial fraud and corruption, to his own advantage, are full of fascination for the eyes of the acquisitive poor young man, who, tempted to go and do likewise, generally falls when he takes one of Gould's jumps, and tumbles into the penitentiary.

WHAT WILL NEW YORK DO?

The New York delegation to the republican national convention includes Thomas C. Platt. Who is Thomas C. Platt? The New York Sun answers this question as follows: "Absolutely and unconditionally, Mr. Platt controls the republican party of New York. He maps out its campaign, he raises the sinews of war, he disposes the forces, and he directs its operations in the field. No politician ever controlled more absolutely the machinery of his party in this state than Mr. Platt. Mr. Platt will dictate the men who are to be selected to represent the party at Chicago, and he will control these delegates and dictate to them who to support, and who to knife at Chicago."

This does not much exaggerate the position of Mr. Platt, and therefore his previous political history—Platt and his attitude toward the "Blaine-or-nullusites" in New York—is worth reciting. Mr. Platt and Roscoe Conkling were hand-in-glove as senators from New York when Garfield, prompted by Blaine, Whitelaw Reid and others, broke faith with the Grant stalwarts by appointing William H. Robertson, who had been a traitor to the Conkling faction at Chicago, to the collectorship of the port of New York. Conkling and Platt both resigned, and both were beaten by the Blaine faction when they sought vindication by re-election at the hands of the New York legislature. Mr. Conkling is dead, but Mr. Platt and he were of one mind concerning Mr. Blaine when they opposed his nomination at Cincinnati in 1876; they were of one mind when they opposed his nomination in 1880; and they resigned together in 1881, when Garfield, at the instance of Blaine, broke faith with them. There is nothing in the past career of Mr. Platt to inspire the belief that he will lose his opportunity at Chicago to use his influence to defeat the nomination of Mr. Blaine.

The New York Sun pertinently says:

> This New York opposition in itself might not prove an insuperable obstacle to the nomination of Mr. Blaine any more than it did in 1884, but the republican nominee who cannot carry New York state cannot win. Mr. Platt is as good a hater and as hard a fighter as Mr. Conkling was, when, with Mr. Arthur, the triumvirate of Conkling, Platt and Arthur swept things before them in state and federal elections. The convention can nominate a candidate objectionable to Mr. Platt and the New York delegation, but it cannot elect him in November without the co-operation of the Platt influence. Will the convention, in the face of this fact, nominate a candidate distasteful to the New York managers of the party?

Mr. Platt is reported to be favorable to the candidacy of Mr. Depew, who did not join in the hue and cry against Conkling and Platt in 1881, and finally retired from the senatorial contest on good terms with Mr. Conkling. Mr. Platt is also on very close terms of political intimacy with Senator Hiscock, his fellow delegate to Chicago, and it is predicted by the Sun that Mr. Platt "will hold Depew and Hiscock in reserve, and if the proper occasion occurs, spring one or the other of them for the first place, the one that shows the most strength outside the New York delegation. Or, perhaps, he may think it safer for the party to take one of the Western candidates for the first place, with Depew or Hiscock in the second place, in order, say, to make Indiana and New York reasonably sure for the ticket."

Whether the prediction shall prove true or not it is more than probable that Mr. Platt will see to it that the Blaine-or-nullusite faction does not deliver the vote of the New York delegation for Garfield's ex-secretary of state. The presence of Platt on the New York delegation makes it not unlikely that as an old-time Grant-Conkling stalwart republican he may be well disposed to the nomination of Gresham, another old-time Grant-Conkling stalwart, if he can secure the second place on the ticket either for Hiscock or some other influential New York republican. At all events we should as soon expect the leopard to change his spots as to see Thomas C. Platt lose an opportunity to mar the best laid plans of the Blaine-or-nullusite faction.

"ADMINISTRATIVE EXPEDIENCY."

The organ of the administration at the capital, the Washington Post, is calling upon the president to use his patronage in forcing the democrats into line on the Mills tariff bill. It says:

> When the president assumed the responsibility of making his party's platform he certainly obliged himself not to allow the federal patronage under the administration to be doled out to congressmen who oppose that platform. This republic is governed by parties, and the party in power would show that it ought to be out if it used federal patronage to advance doctrines which it condemns as unsound and unpatriotic.

To this the New York World answers: "Of course if the president believes that there is nothing loftier in politics than peddling offices out to his friends and supporters he will coincide with his Washington organ and proceed to nullify the doctrine of civil service reform." But this the president has done about as far as he can already.

It is now reported that the president has assigned as a reason for the decided activity that prevails in seeing that no critics of the administration shall remain in office, is that the removals are required by "administrative expediency." This term bids fair to surpass the other by-words of the president's first term, both because it is more elastic and because it serves to mark the abjuration of the policy on which the older stock of phrases was based. "Offensive partisanship" and "pernicious activity" were equally polysyllabic, but they had the drawback of a definite meaning, used as they were in connection with other presidential utterances. But "administrative expediency" is highly adapted to the present season, in being capable of covering anything from firing out a republican offensive partisan, or beheading a democrat because he is not offensive partisan enough to meet campaign requirements.

A special dispatch from Indianapolis states that on the 17th there was a meeting in that city of the Indiana delegation to the national republican convention. The conference took no additional action in any formal way in regard to the choice of Indiana for president, but the unanimous opinion was that the delegation should declare for the Indianian upon whom the delegates from other states would the more readily unite. That is, if Harrison appeared to be that man, Indiana would adhere to him; if Gresham, then Indiana would go to him. The dispatch further says: "When the telegraph announced that Illinois had instructed for Gresham, the distinguished jurist's friends in the state were electrified, and the action of the republicans in Wisconsin, Minnesota and other states has caused hundreds to flock to the Gresham standard. The effect has been magical, and the republicans of Indiana are settling down to the one idea that the state can have the next president, and they cannot afford to throw away the chance. The state officials, who in the past have actively interested themselves in Gen. Harrison's cause, now recognize the magnitude of the Gresham movement and are quietly permitting it to roll and toss over the state. They will fight under the banner of any Indiana man, confident that any one who may be nominated can lead them on to victory."

A. W. Lobach, of San Diego, a communication from whom appears in another column, has really answered himself in his own letter, although he does not seem to see it, and THE OREGONIAN will show it to him a little more clearly. He objects to an implied statement that Henry George is a communist, yet he himself says: "George's idea is the individualism of the many, of all, and not of the few." What in the name of common sense is that idea but communism? Communism is the negation of individual rights in property and that is just what Henry George, and all the band of wild theorists, who look up to him as a leader, propose. As Mr. Lobach appears to have read his Henry George bible very superficially, he may pardon THE OREGONIAN for quoting two texts for his more particular consideration:

> Whatever may be said for the institution of private property in land, it is plain that it cannot be defended on the score of justice.—Progress and Poverty, Book vii, chap. 1.
>
> And by the time the people of any such country as England or the United States are sufficiently aroused to the injustice and disadvantages of individual ownership of land to induce them to attempt its nationalization, they will be sufficiently aroused to nationalize it in a much more direct and easy way than by purchase. They will not trouble themselves about compensating the proprietors of land.—Book vii, chap. 3.

These texts are a complete refutation of Mr. Lobach's assertion that Henry George is not a communist. According to the latter, the man who has worked hard all his life, saved his earnings, purchased a piece of land, improved it and brought it to that state of perfection which enables him to live comfortably in his old age upon what it will produce, has no more right to it than the idler and spendthrift who has wasted his substance all the days of his life. Mr. Lobach may rest under the impression that Henry George's theories are gaining converts and will some time prevail, but the great strength of a nation always has, and always will be, the land owners and home builders.

THE OREGONIAN has many inquiries as to whether, in its judgment, the Mills tariff bill will become a law, or not. THE OREGONIAN does not think it will. It is extremely doubtful whether it can pass the house, and quite certain that it cannot pass the senate. The vote in the house will be close, but best judgment is that the bill will fail by from five to eight votes. In the senate all the republicans will vote against it, and several protection democrats.

Voorhees declined to reply to Ingalls in the senate, but made his reply to a democratic club in Indiana. Which moved the Indianapolis Journal of May 18 to say: "This is the day on which Mr. Daniel Webster Van Voorhees is to avenge his honah, sah. Weapon, a jawbone; distance, eight hundred miles; position, back toward his adversary."

The Wheeling Intelligencer says that the republican delegates from West Virginia are very favorable to Gresham, and will readily come to his support.

NOT AN OFFENSIVE PARTISAN.

CONNER CREEK, Or., May 21.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I enclose a copy of the circulars that we postmasters are receiving now. Fearing if I follow the request contained therein I might become an offensive partisan, I forward to you so that I may not be tempted by the sight of it. Yours truly,

J. MYRICK, Postmaster.

P. S. Don't mention the matter to Mr. Cleveland.

[The circular enclosed is the same one heretofore printed by THE OREGONIAN, in which the postmasters of the state were urged to turn out and get three votes apiece for the democratic ticket.—Ed.]

DOINGS IN COURT YESTERDAY

A Large Loop Hole Found in the New Opium Law.

Several New Suits Commenced—Over $1000 Paid for Keeping United States Prisoners—Litigation Notes.

Dr. O. Gunderson, who had an examination before Justice Bushwiler Monday afternoon for prescribing morphine without having registered with the county clerk, as required by an act of the legislature of 1887, was discharged by Justice Bushwiler yesterday afternoon. The principal point argued was on what constitutes morphine, and the dissertations of the counsel and court upon medical practice furnished the physicians with a lot of valuable information. As this case is the first one under the new law, it has attracted considerable attention among physicians. As before stated, Gunderson administered a very small amount of a preparation of morphine in a prescription in a serious case of gastric fever. He had not obtained a permit from the county. The justice held that the statute distinctly denotes the word "morphine," in mentioning for what it is necessary to take out a permit. It does not mention morphine preparations. Under the reading of the statute it also says that no regularly graduated physician or pharmacist shall prescribe morphine, opium, etc., unless he has previously registered with the county clerk and obtained a permit. This construction is so faulty that any person not a regularly graduated physician can prescribe without registering, but the pharmacist shall not furnish opium on a prescription without he knows it to be from a regularly qualified physician. Justice Bushwiler was also of the opinion that the man who framed the law did not know what he was doing.

NEW SUITS.

In the state circuit court yesterday Mary E. Dodson sued Eli P. Dodson for divorce and asked for the custody of their three-year-old child Ethel. They were married at Eugene City October 26, 1885. Mrs. Dodson alleges that her husband has cruelly treated her; that he has never provided her the necessaries of life, though able to and that in addition he has frequently assaulted her and threatened her life.

Ames & Detrick sued F. Malone for $420 06 alleged to be due for goods sold.

Wadhams & Elliott sued C. Carmichael for $893 15 alleged to be due on promissory notes.

W. C. Noon began a foreclosure suit against L. C. Coulter, George Cohn & Bro. and O'Shea Bros. He asks judgment against Coulter for $1725 alleged to be due on promissory notes, made by Coulter, to secure the payment of which he is alleged to have given mortgages on his undivided one-half interest in four lots in Wilson's addition to North Portland. Defendants Cohn Bros. and O'Shea Bros. have liens on the property which, plaintiff alleges, are subordinate to his. Noon also asks personal judgment against Coulter for any deficiency that may be found to exist after the sale of the mortgaged property.

FOR THE WIFE OR THE CREDITORS?

In the suit of Barbara Muller vs. Thomas Guinean, the answer of the defendant was filed in the state circuit court yesterday. Guinean denies part of the allegations and says that but $480 50, instead of $483 as alleged by Mrs. Muller, remained after his mortgage on the Esmond restaurant property had been satisfied. Guinean says he does not know whether this sum is due to the plaintiff or the creditors of her husband. He therefore asks that Simon Sweet, Muller's assignee, be made defendant to the suit, and that the money be ordered paid either to Mrs. Muller or Sweet.

NOTES.

S. Sweet, assignee of Henry Muller, late proprietor of the Esmond restaurant, filed his inventory in the state circuit court yesterday, showing the total value of the property, exclusive of the fixtures, to be $258 75.

Judge Stearns issued an order yesterday restraining Wm. Zavery from disposing of any property held in his name, and commanding him to appear June 1 to show cause why he should not pay $250 into court to enable his wife to prosecute her suit for divorce from him.

Pugilist Tom Ward, charged with breaking a cane over his wife's head was not ready for trial when the case was called in the police court yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Ward's evidence was taken, and it was to the effect above stated. Ward will give his side of the story to-day. James Clarke and Charles Meyers, who broke into Leon Sweet's store were held to answer before the grand jury.

PAY FOR KEEPING U. S. PRISONERS.

U. S. Marshal Myers has been authorized to pay for the support of U. S. prisoners as follows:

To Sheriff Bently, of Umatilla county, for the keep of nineteen prisoners for the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1887, $128 88.

For the keep of eighteen prisoners for the quarter ending March 31, 1888, $146 88.

To Thomas A. Jordan, sheriff of Multnomah county, for the keep of thirty-two prisoners for quarter ending Dec. 31, 1887, $584 25.

For twenty-five prisoners for quarter ending March 31, 1888, $235 68.

During the quarter ending Dec. 31, thirty-two prisoners were discharged from Multnomah county jail, twenty-two of whom were under sentence for selling liquor to Indians, and during the following quarter twenty-five were discharged, fifteen of whom were convicted of the same offense.

YESTERDAY'S "BLOTTER."

PROPERTY AND FURNITURE,

PORTLAND,

Will be sold at auction, to settle up an estate. The property consists of a quarter of a block of land and a

Three-Story Fire-Proof Building and a Two-Story Residence.

It is on the main business street of the city, two blocks from the new railroad depot, and is considered the most favorably located hotel in Portland. The location is such that its rapid enhancement in value is certain.

The house can be kept crowded with first-class guests without 'bus or runners. As a speculation, this is a rare opportunity. As an investment, it is certain of large interest returns. As a location for business, it is one of the choicest in Portland. The building is comparatively new, having been erected five years ago. A brick and cemented basement extends the full size of the building. Terms of sale, one-half cash, balance on long time.

BOATS THAT HAVE COME OVER

Sketches of Fourteen Craft Which Have [illegible] the Cascade Rapids

The First an Accidental Passage, Early in the 50's—Four Boats in One Season—The Trip Saturday.

Shooting the rapids of the Columbia at the Cascades, although a feat attended with more or less danger, and is an experience thrilling and daring, has been successfully accomplished by a number of steamboats during the past thirty years. The measure of risk depends upon several important circumstances, first, the stage of the water, second, the seaworthiness of the boat, and third, the cool head firm hand and experience of the pilot Of course, the higher the stage of water the greater the degree of security but even then, the force and swiftness of the mighty current the treacherous swing of the many eddies, and the hidden rocks which beset the channel, all call for steady nerve and courage of a high order One failure, and one faltering movement of a moment's duration, may be attended with disastrous consequences to property and peril to human life These dangers have been met a number of times in the history of Columbia river navigation during the past three decades though not always with perfect success There have been several serious accidents to boats but, so far as known only one life has been lost in accomplishing the run of the rapids.

Saturday the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company's steamer Hassalo will make the run of the Cascade rapids, unless some unexpected event should occur which will prevent The proposed run of this steamboat brings to the mind of old residents of the state the circumstances attending the shooting of the rapids by a number of craft since the upper waters of the Columbia and Snake rivers were first navigated by the whites The following account contains the names of the boats that have come through, successfully and otherwise, and by whom the run was conducted. Dates cannot be furnished, through the lapse of years, but the order in which the boats have passed through the dangerous waters is as near correct as possible

THE FIRST RUN BY ACCIDENT.

The first boat which had the honor to run the watery gauntlet was the old stern wheel steamer Umatilla, some time during the '50s, and this was purely the result of accident The owners of the boat had no purpose or expectation of her coming down at all. The boat was plying on the Middle Columbia at the time She was moored at a wharf just above the suck of the rapids one day, and was just on the eve of starting up to The Dalles The captain of the Umatilla, in his thoughtless haste, did not take into consideration the fact of whether or not there was any steam in the boiler. He gave orders to cast off the lines, and, when too late, the unwelcome and startling discovery was made that there was not steam enough to move the wheel. In a moment the boat was caught and hurried down with the seething waters One man, thinking the fate of the boat was sealed, leaped overboard and perished The Umatilla followed the channel and came down safely for some distance, as the water was at a pretty good stage When well through she struck on a large rock, tearing a big hole in the hull She filled and sunk, but drifted down by the great force of the current and finally ran ashore Subsequently the boat was raised and repaired, and some time later was taken north and ran on the Fraser river The rock against which the boat struck was ever afterward known as the "Umatilla Rock When Col Gillespie, the United States engineer was in charge here, he caused the dangerous rock to be blown out with giant powder in connection with the work at the Cascade locks

THE ONEONTA'S TRIP

The second steamboat which made the perilous passage was the large side-wheeler Oneonta, which was built at The Dalles and for a time ran on the middle river Capt John C Ainsworth the pioneer steamboat pilot, stood at the wheel and brought down the Oneonta Advantage was taken of a high stage of water, and the run was accomplished quite successfully While passing through the big eddy the bow of the steamer was caught and she took a sheer Control was lost for a few moments and during that time the steamer ran ashore on the north side, but fortunately struck in such a manner as to escape much damage. She was so roughly handled, however, and strained when she ran ashore, that a number of seams were started, and the boat leaked badly Repairs were made, and the Oneonta did many years of active and very profitable service for the Oregon Steam Navigation Company running on the route between Portland and the Cascades Nearly ten years ago the boat was condemned and broken up at the old boneyard

CAME OVER AT A LOW STAGE

The third boat was the stern-wheel steamer Okanagon which was built at Celilo Capt. Thomas Stump acted as pilot. The water was so low as to render the passage dangerous Despite the experience of Capt Stump, and his coolness and presence of mind, it was impossible to follow the windings of the tortuous channel and steer clear of the perilous obstructions. When about half way down the rapids, the boat ran on a sharp rock and ripped a large hole in the hull She filled and soon sunk to the cabin deck, forcing the pilot and crew to abandon her All managed to escape in small boats to the bank and no lives were lost. The Okanagon floated down some distance and finally drifted ashore With much difficulty and considerable expense the boat was afterwards raised, repaired and rendered years of excellent service on the lower Columbia and its tributaries Before or since that time no boat had ever attempted to shoot the rapids at such a low stage of water and to this fact was the accident attributable

AN EASY PASSAGE

Next after the Okanagon the old stern wheel steamer Nez Perce Chief made the run. This boat was built at Celilo, and belonged to the O S N Co Capt J E Ainsworth stood at the wheel and brought the steamer successfully through and over the whirling waters, without even scratching the paint or starting a seam At the time the river was booming, and the boat passed safely above the rocks Subsequently the hull of the Nez Perce Chief was condemned but the cabin was placed on the new hull of the Emma Hayward, and has since done good service

AN INGLORIOUS END.

After the Nez Perce Chief the old Shoshone was the next boat to run the gauntlet This steamer had the most eventful career from first to last of probably any boat that ever ran on the Columbia and Snake Originally the Shoshone was built on the upper Snake near Boise away above the Snake river canyon The first attempt was made to bring the steamer down to Lewiston This was attempted by Capt. Cy Smith who brought her a portion of the distance, and then abandoned the effort After about a year Capt Bass Miller undertook the difficult and hazardous task He succeeded finally in getting the Shoshone to Lewiston, though not without considerable damage having at one time torn away part of the bow Finally the Shoshone reached the upper Cascades Capt Ainsworth brought the boat successfully through the rapids and she arrived at Portland after a long and dangerous passage of more than a thousand miles. Soon after the Shoshone was sold to the Willamette Transportation & Locks Company and placed on the upper Willamette An inglorious fate seemed in store for the old boat, for soon after Capt Bass Miller, who was in command ran on a snag one dark night, just above Salem, while in view of the town lights, and she sank The boat was abandoned and proved a total loss

OTHER TRIPS.

Ex Gov. Z. F. Moody's little propeller Teaser, came next. She was safely piloted through by Capt. John W. Brazee The stage of water was excellent and no accident occurred. Owing to the size of the Teaser, she took considerable water in making the dash Subsequently the Teaser was taken to Puget sound, her machinery removed and the boat converted into a schooner When last heard of she was engaged in the sealing trade

Capt James W. Troup safely brought over the old sidewheel steamboat Idaho, which was the next craft. The river was very high and the passage was made without an accident. The hull was not strong and the attempt was regarded with much apprehension as to results "She was very shaky," said Capt Troup, "and we all expected to see the whole bottom fall out, but she made the run without accident The water was way up and we ran clear of the rocks." After reaching Portland the Idaho was beached on the east side and a new hull built Afterwards the boat was taken to Puget sound and is now running on the Whatcom route

FOUR CRAFT IN ONE SEASON

Under the experienced and skillful guidance of Capt John McNulty the R R. Thompson made the perilous passage in June 1882 She came "a whooping," and never touched once. The run of six miles was made in less than seven minutes. This boat is now on the night route between Portland and Astoria

During the same year the Mountain Queen came over very successfully with Capt James Troup in the pilot house To Mrs Capt Troup belongs the credit of being the only lady who ever came on a boat through those wild, angry rolling masses She was with her husband in the pilot house, as he stood at the wheel

After the Mountain Queen came through the large barge Atlas was brought down by Capt. Fred Wilson. This was successfully accomplished by sailing through, singular as it may seem. There was a stiff up stream wind prevailing, and taking advantage of the circumstance Capt Wilson put up all the canvas he could and "cut her loose" By this means the barge was "backed down" over the rapids, the wind holding her stiff and enabling the steering gear to work and control the movements No accident occurred to boat or men After reaching the big eddy the barge swung round and round like a huge top, but escaped damage

The big Dalles wharf boat was next brought down but did not escape without much damage and expense to the company Capt McNulty and J J Holland had charge of the job. A number of long, heavy chains were thrown out, thus holding the boat back just enough to give her steerage way The men had a very hard time of it, and finally losing all the chains, there was no way of steering her and she ran against the end of Bradford's island and tore away a portion of the side She was repaired and is now used as a wharf boat at Albina

The little propeller Golddust, which is now over on the Sound was also brought through these great swelling rapids This was done successfully by Capt Mitchell The only exciting and perilous episode was the quantity of water the little craft shipped, which at one time threatened to swamp her

Capt Mitchell also safely piloted the little government launch Gen. Humphreys safely through the same passage Like the Golddust the Gen Humphreys had her "mouth" filled with water a number of times before reaching a smooth place in the river below.

Much public interest and curiosity will attend the passage of the Hassalo next Saturday With the exception of the Okanagon the Hassalo will make the run at the lowest stage of water ever attempted by any other boat. It looks as if the Columbia will not get very high this season, and, as the company want the Hassalo, it is proposed to wait no longer than Saturday Capt. Troup says that there will be a number of large rocks in the channel which will not be covered, that it will be absolutely necessary to wind around these dangerous obstacles and follow the channel When many of the other boats came through the river was high enough to enable them to pass in perfect safety over the obstructions Capt Troup will have command of the Hassalo

THE TILLAMOOK TRADE.

Some Facts and Figures Furnished by the Owner of the A B Field

ASTORIA, May 17

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Of late we have seen several communications containing erroneous assertions concerning freight charges to Tillamook.

By referring to our advertisements in your paper in 1883, 1884, 1885, you will see we have only charged $6 per ton on general merchandise from Portland to Tillamook for years by the steamer A B Field

In 1885 we made nineteen trips, in 1886 we made thirty nine trips, in 1887 we made twenty seven trips and in referring to our books we can show all the freight and passenger money collected will not average $90 for a round trip We hope your assertions will induce some of your friends to invest as we are very anxious to have relief If we were not compelled to keep the A B. Field to meet the requirements of our own business, we would not make another trip As it is we have to go and while doing so take freight from Portland to our cannery at Hobsonville and store it free of wharfage for a reasonable time, say ten days, at $6 per ton out of which we pay the O R & N Co's charges from Portland to Astoria

All the freight of general merchandise going to Tillamook combined from all sources, will not amount to 400 tons

All the produce coming out outside of our own salmon will positively not amount to 150 tons.

Our entire revenue from all sources both in and out will not or ever did pay the running expenses of our crew We pay the captain $90 engineer $75 mate $60 deckhand $40 fireman $40 cook $35 making a total of $830 per month for expenses Insurance at 8 per cent and fuel will bring it up to $570 per month All money received last year was $846 14 less than the running expenses of the steamer

The article of Mr O Phelps some time ago was a misstatement from beginning to end Oregon has not many Leinenwebers when measured by public enterprise and we should be pleased to have our management of the steamer A. B Field publicly inquired into

Our charges are $6 from Portland passengers from Astoria $5, round trip good for year $7 50 The Field can carry 100 tons and if any one will guarantee us 100 tons in one month, or 1200 tons in one year we will make a contract at a large reduction

A STORY "OFT TOLD"

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Returning on the O & C from a business trip to California I fell in with a young German, who became my companion on the road to this city The natural question upon first meeting was, "Where are you going?" To this the response came "Seattle" I enquired how it happened that he was destined to that point and to this query he said that he had been informed that good farming lands were located in that locality and as he was a farmer he accepted the statement as correct In traveling through Oregon (the valleys south of Albany) he like others had no opportunity to see all of that portion lying north of Ashland consequently could not form a definite idea of the beautiful lands to be seen along the entire route A stay of but few days on the sound will soon determine in this young man's mind that the area of farming lands over there is rather small. Yet, in the face of that fact the railroad company, or at least its employes, to give travelers the longest possible ride tell this to the class we most need While Washington territory deserves an equal share of the immigrants coming to the coast resort to fraud is certainly reprehensible I would suggest that the immigration agent work in San Francisco where tickets are bought for the North This is important and should be acted upon promptly. Col Irish forgot to mention the little item of sugar in the terrible tax that is being paid by our people under the protective system Mr Swift called attention to the fact that the duty annually collected on sugar is almost exactly equal to the sum of this terrible surplus of the revenue—about fifty millions of dollars If Cleveland and Mills had put sugar on the free list and let the tariff on wool alone, they could have disposed of this dangerous surplus "with neatness and dispatch"—and then they might have sent Col. Irish down to Louisiana to explain to the sugar planters that they would get higher prices for their sugar without any tariff than they would under a high tariff, and that this thing, of politics interfering with business ought to be stopped, anyhow.

DAMAGES FOR DEATH.

U. S. District Court, District of Oregon.

Tuesday, May 22, 1888.

John J. Holland v J A Brown & William L. McCabe, Richard Koehler Receiver—No 2066. Suit for damages for death of a person

(1) DAMAGES FOR DEATH The damages given to an administrator for the death of his intestate by the Statute of Oregon (Comp 1887, § 371) are, when recovered, assets of the estate they do not include anything but what is consequent on the death, and therefore no allowance can be made for the expenses of the illness attendant on the injury which caused the death or of the burial of the deceased

(2) IDEM—SECURITY FOR LIFE These damages are in the nature of a compensation paid by the wrongdoer to creditors and next of kin of the deceased for the loss of life in which they have a pecuniary interest and incidentally the liability to pay them, is calculated to secure from carriers and corporations more consideration for the lives of passengers and employes committed to their care

(3) CASE IN JUDGMENT Ferry boat No 2 and the steam launch Mikado collided in the Wallamet river, in front of the Portland slip of the former, and thereby caused the death of a passenger on the latter when such collision might have been avoided and the death prevented by the proper handling of either boat Held the owners of both boats are liable to the administrator of the deceased under the statute of Oregon, in solido for the damages resulting from such death.

DEADY, J

This suit is brought by the libellant as the administrator of the estate of Philip J Holland deceased against the defendants J A Brown and William L McCabe as owners of the steam launch Mikado, and Richard Koehler as the receiver of the United States circuit court of this district of the property of the Oregon & California Railway Company the owner of the steam ferry boat No 2, to recover damages for the death of said Philip, alleged to have been caused by the concurring negligence and misconduct of the persons in charge of said boats, respectively on October 26 1886

The owners of the Mikado and the receiver answer separately, and the controversy has assumed a three-sided form—each defendant practically admitting that the deceased came to his death by the fault of the person in charge of the other's boat Brown and McCabe also allege that the negligence of the deceased contributed to his death, and both defendants allege that his death was no loss to his estate The character in which the libellant sues is admitted

From the pleadings and evidence in the case and a view of the vicinity where the injury occurred, I find the following facts

On and before October 26 1886, the Oregon and California Railway Company was the owner of the steam ferry boat No 2 then running under the direction of the defendant Koehler receiver as aforesaid as a ferry boat on the Wallamet river between her slip at the foot of F street, in Portland and her landing on the east side of the river a distance of about 1000 feet across the stream and 800 feet down the same from said slip

The ferry boat is a double-ended heavy side-wheel iron boat of great power about 130 feet long and fifty-four feet wide over all—her guards projecting beyond her hull some 10 to 12 feet, and about eight feet above her water line and is capable of making twelve miles an hour, and of stopping, when under way, at full speed, in about seventy feet.

At the same time the defendants, Brown & McCabe, were the owners of the steam launch Mikado, then engaged in carrying passengers between Portland and Albina—a distance of about a mile—starting from her dock in Portland, between D and E streets, and about 300 feet above the ferry slip The Mikado is a propeller about 45 feet long and 12 feet beam and can make ten to twelve miles an hour She has a pilot house a few feet aft of her stem, back of which is a cabin on deck and an open space at the stern for the accommodation of passengers, of which she can carry sixty

Brown & McCabe are stevedores, and the Mikado was being used by them to carry their workmen down the river, to assist in loading and unloading vessels Brown usually acted as pilot for which he had a license from the United States inspectors At this time the owners of the Mikado were under contract with Robert MacIntosh a ship carpenter of Portland to carry his workmen to and from their employment between the termini of her route at so much a month

On the morning of October 26 1886 the Mikado was at her dock with thirty-five or forty passengers on board, mostly workmen going to their day's labor including the deceased, who was then in the employ of MacIntosh as a "liner" of ships and "handy man" Brown, the pilot, was not on hand Arthur Jones a youth between 17 and 18 years of age who is now engaged as fireman on the Northern Pacific railway and was then employed on the boat in some subordinate capacity often took the wheel under Brown's direction The time having arrived for the passengers to go to their work Jones undertook to make the trip as pilot. Accordingly the Mikado was started out head up stream and swung around till her bow pointed down stream, at about 250 feet from the west shore and her dock when Jones observed the ferry boat coming out of her slip on the way across and down the river to her east shore landing He immediately gave one blast of his whistle to signify that he intended to pass to the right. The pilot of the ferryboat immediately responded with one whistle and instead of porting his helm and passing to the right up stream, stopped his engines At the time these signals were given the ferryboat had moved out from her slip about twenty feet and the Mikado was about 300 feet above the point, where the courses of the two boats if continued would cross each other at right angles

The ferry boat had not yet gotten steerage way and was moving directly across the river at about three miles an hour, while the Mikado was moving down stream at about five miles an hour with her helm slightly to port The ferry boat by force of the impetus already obtained continued to move forward through the water after her engines were stopped, and the Mikado did not change her course or slacken her speed until the collision was imminent or unavoidable when she ported her helm and stopped her engine About the same time the ferry boat reversed her engines

The port side of the bow of the Mikado came in contact with the starboard side of the ferry boat about 20 feet aft at an angle of about 45 degrees and ran under the latter which pushed the pilot house of the Mikado with Jones in it, off into the river, on the starboard side

At and just before the collision took place, the deceased with two other passengers, was standing on the deck of the Mikado in front of the pilot house One of them saved himself by jumping overboard and the other by springing up on to the guard of the ferry boat But the deceased was caught about the head between the guard and pilot house and badly hurt from the effects of which he subsequently died Among other injuries his jaw was broken and his skull fractured at the base which resulted in an abscess on the brain, that was the immediate cause of his death

There was neither wind nor current to interfere with the action or management of the boats and either could have been stopped backed or turned aside without difficulty in time to avoid the collision

From these facts but one conclusion can be drawn The management of both boats was in fault The first duty of a person in charge of a vessel particularly where the lives of passengers are at risk, is to avoid a collision by all means.

The Mikado was moving at the rate of five miles an hour and the ferry boat at the rate of three, when the whistles were blown The former would cross the course of the latter in a distance of 300 feet The ferry boat was then 20 feet from shore, and her length was 130 more which made her bow 150 feet out in the stream The ferry boat was making 4½ feet a second, and the Mikado 7⅓ feet in the same time At this rate the Mikado would pass over the 300 feet in a little less than 41 seconds while the ferry boat would move forward 150 feet in a little more than 30 seconds and thus bring them both to the point of intersection within less than five seconds of each other

From this it is evident that it ought not to have escaped the attention of a competent and attentive pilot that if the two boats continued to move as they did at and after the whistles were blown the Mikado would most likely collide with the ferry boat at some point along her length of 130 feet. The engineer of the ferry boat testified that he got the bell to reverse the engine in about a half minute after they were stopped In that time the ferry boat would move over about 100 feet, which would put her bow 200 feet from the shore and at right angles with the course of the Mikado, when her engines were reversed It is therefore quite evident, notwithstanding the testimony to the contrary, that the engines of the ferry boat were not reversed until or just before the moment of collision.

These conclusions as to distances, times and rates of speed, are, of course, only approximately true They are drawn from widely discrepant and contradictory statements of witnesses most of which are at best but indefinite impressions and off hand guesses

But of this fact there is no doubt These two boats came into collision under circumstances, from which it plainly appears that either of them might easily have kept out of the other's way, and that the death of Philip J Holland was caused thereby

The pilot of the ferry boat after responding to the signal of the Mikado, and seeing that she was about to pass directly in front of him, ought to have reversed his engines at once and thus have avoided the collision Instead of this he allowed his boat to keep moving forward towards the point of collision apparently relying on the fact that there was plenty of room for the Mikado to pass to the starboard of him and if she did not keep out of the way and a collision occurred she would certainly get the worst of it, and be more careful in the future

On the other hand, when Jones saw that the ferry boat was moving through the water at right angles with his course and her forward end within less than 200 feet of it he ought to have ported his helm and passed at least 100 feet in front of her or reversed his engines and waited for her to go by. Instead of this, he wilfully held on his way acting apparently on the idea that, as he had what by virtue of the signals he called "the right of way," he was justified in passing so far to the left as to compel the ferry boat not only to stop her engines but to reverse them to back out of his way; and this notwithstanding there was a breadth of not less than 700 feet of good water on his right the very side of the river to which he was bound and the obligation he was under to carry the deceased and his fellow passengers safely so far as practicable, by the exercise of human care and foresight" Shoemaker v. Kingsbury, 12 Wall, 376

Indeed I think the Mikado was primarily in fault in undertaking to cross the bow of the ferry boat in such proximity to it while it was moving forward, especially while there was so much open water and free way on her starboard The signal made by the Mikado did not give her the absolute "right of way" over any particular part of the river It only signified that the Mikado would pass to the starboard of the ferry boat, and therefore the latter must pass to her starboard or slow up or stop until she got by It would have been very inconvenient for the ferry boat to have kept under way and ported her helm as that would have taken her up stream while her course was diagonally down stream. Therefore she might properly slow or stop until the Mikado passed But the ferry boat is a large machine—a floating bridge—an established and licensed method of transit moving to and fro at regular and short intervals on the line of a great interstate thoroughfare, and in my judgment it is an abuse of the sailing rules prescribed by § 4233 of the Revised Statutes—particularly in and about the wharves and harbor of this city for every little cockle-shell of a craft that catches the ferry boat coming out of her slip to whistle for the so-called "right of way," and thus compel her, not only to stop her engines, but reverse them, so the cockle-shell can pass immediately in front of the great boat with impunity, instead of waiting a few seconds until she has passed on

But in this proceeding the misconduct of the one party does not excuse the other The pilot of each boat was bound, irrespective of the propriety of the conduct of the other, to do what he could to avoid a collision on account of the danger to human life

In the consideration of this question no specific effect has been given to the fact that the Mikado did not have a licensed pilot at the wheel For thus acting without license, Jones may be proceeded against under the law personally; and Brown has already paid a fine But in this suit, the only inquiry so far as the Mikado is concerned, is was she in fault whether managed by a licensed or unlicensed pilot But in considering the propriety of Jones's conduct on the occasion, it is impossible to altogether overlook the fact that he was an inexperienced and determined youth, who probably was more concerned to assert what he called his "right of way" against the big boat than to avoid a collision

Although this suit was brought on the theory that this court might have jurisdiction of the wrong complained of without the aid of any statute of congress or the state and therefore the damages were only limited by the judgment of the court yet on the hearing it was admitted on the authority of the case of The Harrisburg (119 U S 199), that the right to damages at all was derived from the statute of the state which limits the amount to $5000, and therefore the claim in the libel for $10 000 damages was abandoned In addition to the claim for general damages the libel contains a claim for special damages arising from the expenses of the last sickness and burial of the deceased, amounting to $1415

A statute of Oregon (Comp 1887, § 371) gives the administrator of a person whose death is caused by the wrongful act or omission of another" a right to recover damages therefor, not exceeding $5000. The damages when recovered are assets of the estate and must be disposed of accordingly They are assessed for the pecuniary injury to the deceased person's estate caused by his death Nothing is therefore allowed for the sufferings of the deceased, nor as a solace to the survivors

The right to these damages may be enforced in the admiralty whenever the wrong which caused the death occurred as in this case on a navigable water of the United States See Holmes v Railway Co 6 Saw 262 and cases there cited, also Ladd v Foster 31 Fed Rep 827

In estimating the damages resulting from the death of the deceased to his estate his age health habits and disposition and capacity to labor and make and save money and acquire property must be considered Holmes v Railway Co 6 Saw 332

The deceased was about 40 years of age and in good bodily health and strength He was not in the full sense of the term a skilled workman but his brother the libellant is a master ship carpenter, and the deceased worked at and about this business and was considered a willing "handy man" His employer at the time of his death a master ship carpenter with whom he was once a partner gave him employment about half the time at $5 a day Another master workman said he paid for the same kind of work $4 a day At the same time the evidence shows that he was what is called a "good fellow," given more or less to drink and dissipation when not employed and although he had no one but himself to support died worth nothing There are some circumstances, however which tend to show that a short time before his death he had gone to live with his brother the libellant and was intending and attempting a new and better life He does not appear to have been married and his relatives so far as the evidence discloses are the libellant and a sister

He was capable of earning probably $4 a day for 300 days in the year and supposing he would lay up $400 a year of this sum for twenty years the simple money value of his life might be worth the present sum of $5000 But it is impossible to say whether he would have done so or not It is possible that he might but the possibilities are all against it

The case of the Railway Co v Barron (5 Wall 90) arose under an Illinois statute that contained a direction, which though not expressed in the Oregon statute is fairly implied in it It reads— the jury may give such damages as they shall deem a fair and just compensation with reference to the pecuniary injuries resulting from such death to the wife and next of kin of such deceased person not exceeding the sum of $5000 " In commenting on this statute the court speaking by Mr Justice Nelson says—"We do not think it necessary to prove actual pecuniary loss It can rarely be done. The attempt to do it would substitute the opinions of witnesses for the conclusions of the jury The facts proved will enable the jury to decide on the proper measure of responsibility Some cases are harder than others and the law intends the jury shall discriminate in different cases There is no fixed measure of damages, and no artificial rule by which the damages in a given case can be computed

In Penn Ry Co v. McCloskey (23 Pa. St. 526), a case arising under a somewhat similar statute it is said The principle which requires compensation for the death of a freeman is not at all new in history It was long an institution among our Anglo-Saxon ancestors, and perhaps it was never positively abolished, but rather died out under the influence of the Norman conquest and the centralizing power of the king's courts which treated all such wrongs as wrongs done to the king, and hence as criminal offences. It seems to have been an institution common to all Germanic nations, and perhaps to every people that rose one degree above the savage life, and were still striving to rise With them it was intended as a compensation to surviving kindred and as a means for preventing the disorders that follow in the train of private revenge "

This was the ancient Saxon weregild or price of a homicide or other crime, whereby a fixed pecuniary compensation was made to the next of kin for the death of a relative Every man's life had its value, called a were and in the time of King Athelstan the were of every order of persons in the state from the king to the ceorl was fixed by law Blount's Law Lexicon Weregild 1 Reeves His Eng. Law, 15 4 Black, 188, 313

And although the primary purpose of the modern statute like that of the ancient custom is to provide compensation for the injury rather than to inflict punishment for the wrong yet in estimating the damages for the former it may be well to remember that the liability to pay them, may have the effect to inculcate a wholesome regard for human life, and compel carriers and corporations having the persons of passengers and employes in their care to a faithful discharge of their duty towards them

Giving due weight then so far as I can to these facts probabilities and considerations, my judgment is, that the damages for the death of the deceased ought not to exceed $2500

The items of expense of the sickness and burial of the deceased concerning which any proof was offered are as follows 56 days in St. Vincent's hospital, with day and night nurse and shroud and liquor $168 undertaker $94 50, carriage hire $23 ferriage $5 30, grave $15 priest and choir $25 physician $225 In all $670

I do not think anything can be allowed in this suit for these expenses—at least as such. True they are the result of the wrongful conduct of the defendants which caused the death of the deceased But the action given by the statute is for the death simply This includes of course all such losses to his estate or creditors and next of kin to whom it belongs and for whose benefit the action is allowed as may be fairly implied from the cessation of his life

The fact on which the damages are computed is death and its consequences and not its antecedents or cause And yet it is manifest that the estate of the deceased is injured or diminished by these expenses The damages allowed in this case must first be applied by the administrator to the payment of what may be found justly due the creditors of the estate on this account. For this reason it might be proper and convenient to have the probable amount of these expenses considered in estimating the general damages But as the statute in my judgment, does not authorize the recovery of damages on any such account the claim must be rejected

The defense of contributory negligence remains to be considered.

The burden of proof in this behalf is on the defendant alleging the negligence The only particular in which it is claimed that the conduct of the deceased contributed to his death is that he occupied a place on the forward deck instead of the cabin or the after one Ordinarily there was no unusual danger in being there There was nothing to indicate that passengers were not allowed forward of the pilot house Jones does not say that he gave the passengers any warning on the subject on this occasion, though he thinks he did speak of it at some other time in the hearing of the deceased If this was a dangerous position under ordinary circumstances, it was the duty of the owners of the boat to provide some means of restraining or warning passengers from going there The fact that on this occasion the deceased and two others stood on this deck just in front of the pilot house right under the eye of the pilot, without a word or suggestion from him to the contrary, proves that the position was not regarded by the latter as one of any particular danger.

But it is said that he was negligent in remaining there after the collision was imminent. But that is not at all certain He might have thought, as one of his companions did, that the safest course was to remain and take the chance of getting on the big boat at the point of collision before the little one was run down. His companion, who jumped overboard, said he did so rather than undertake to get back along the narrow space between the house and gunwale, because he thought the Mikado was going to be sunk

The evidence is meager and obscure on this point it only appearing that of the three persons who stood on this deck one jumped overboard and another sprang up on the guard of the ferry boat and was saved, while the deceased who for aught that appears, was intending and trying to escape in the same way, was caught by the head between the guard and pilot house as in the jaws of a vice and crushed so that he died and but for the fact that the pilot house gave way and was pushed overboard, he probably would have been killed outright However, the deceased having been placed in this dangerous predicament by the fault of the defendants, they are liable for his death even if it appears that it was possible for him to have escaped unharmed The law does not require skill diligence or good judgment from a person in such a situation or moment of danger and excitement but regards him as one in extremis whose conduct though erroneous or unwise it does not consider a fault Ladd v Foster 31 Fed Rep 831 and cases there cited The defendants having by their concurrent negligence caused the death of the deceased, are liable in solido for the damages Ladd v Foster 31 Fed Rep 835 and cases there cited

The libellant is entitled to a decree against the defendants for the sum of $2500 and costs and disbursements of the suit

THE COMMUNIST'S PARADISE

SAN DIEGO Cal May 16

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In your issue of April 25 on the editorial page is an article headed "The Fool's Paradise" After describing the institution and conditions of Cherokee life the writer says

Here is the Henry George communist's paradise " Now any one who ever glanced through not to say ever read George's works or his paper knows that he is farther from being a communist or from advocating the paternal idea than this critic Take every line that he has ever written and give it the closest inspection and you will not discover the slightest tendency therein to socialism communism or paternal government He is in the highest degree an individualist That idea abounds in all his writings but it is the individualism of the many, of all, and not of the few

The writer of the article in question evidently fears the spread of the George theory and with good reason, it is spreading and rapidly But why stop or try to stop investigation of a theory by misrepresentation? If the George theory is wrong this writer would far better turn his attention to the refutation of it

If there are any passages in "Progress and Poverty" that savor of that terrible bugbear of socialism communism or paternal government select them for analysis and exposure and by so doing hold that terrible George and his terrible theory up to public execration as the destroyer of civilization in intent

The Cherokee social state the Harmonite community the Amana society or any other you mentioned, is one thing Henry George's idea is another thing altogether as dissimilar to them as is the present social order Were his idea carried out there would be just as great fields for him in ambition as now, just as great, yes greater inducement to exertion as now for what one earned would be assured to him as his own it would not so soon be gathered into the coffers of the land owner through the action of that inexorable law of rent

Now I challenge you or any one else, to show by a single passage from any of his writings that he is a socialist, a communist, an advocate of paternal government, or that he is not an individualist

After all is said and done, why would there not be as much justice in the government controlling production, as in trusts and corporations controlling it? A W LOBACH

NEWS FROM THE EAST SIDE

Comprehensive Statement of the Doings of the Baby Home.

Appeal to the Public for Continued Aid—Residences Springing Up in all Directions—Personal and General.

About three years ago the young people of the city organized a dramatic company for the purpose of securing funds for a city library Although the initial entertainment of the company was a pronounced success, nothing further was done in the matter Friends of the baby home of East Portland hearing that the company had some funds lying in the bank, with no definite object in view have solicited these funds to assist in the maintenance of the home The officers of the dramatic company have expressed their willingness to make the donation and it is to be hoped that they will do so The baby home is a very praiseworthy institution and deserves the liberality of all right minded citizens

Referring to the above it may be of interest to the public to know what the baby home is doing The board of managers, recognizing the fact that the public are interested in all humanitarian enterprises request a statement made of the work done since January 1888

There have been admitted to the home since the above date 24 children Number at present in baby home 8 greatest number at one time 11 number who have been adopted into permanent homes, 3, deaths 1 There has been one case of measles during the present month

The above brief statement will show something of the work being accomplished Of course much more could be done if the means were at hand to enlarge the work The board are very happy in the possession of a matron who is a gem in the person of Mrs Clarke Under her management everything moves like clockwork and the board takes this method of publicly recognizing her valuable services and devotion to her duties Also the board desires to thank all who have helped either with money, gifts or labor, especially Mr James Abraham who presented a fine baby carriage for the use of infants Also Mr Campbell, Mr Oran Mr C J Ward Mr Meyers and Mr E Mendenhall who all gave of the labor of their hands to fit up the home Also to the ladies of all the churches who helped with their needles to make garments and bedding for the Home

And now dear friends of the little ones will you send in donations of clothing fruit and fresh vegetables for those who eat, remembering the words of the Master that these little ones are the greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven " There is one little blind boy who is so sweet and docile it would bring tears to "eyes unused to weep" to see him

The public are invited to visit the Home on Thursdays and judge for themselves By order of the board. MRS R M ROBB
Secretary

DEMOCRATIC MEETING

Hall & Stott's hall was filled last night by a large audience which gathered to hear the first democratic speech of the campaign in East Portland The meeting was called to order by G M Stroud, who introduced Prof G M Miller prohibition nominee for congress who held the floor for one hour and a quarter. Prof Miller stated on rising that as a Miller he would grind the grist and regulate the Gearin' of the machinery in such a way that the opposition would think a second judgment day had come. The audience seemed to take a good portion of his speech as a joke He made a few sarcastic remarks concerning how some ministers publicly opposed making prohibition a political issue Then told some funny stories at the expense of Rev I, D Driver He styled the tariff question as an imaginary reform dodge of the republican and democratic parties and said that tariff and protection would be all right when the manufacture of liquors was prohibited and that the stoppage of revenue from that source would settle the surplus question

Mr Gearin next took the floor and stated that on account of ill health he hardly felt able to acquit himself with credit to his hearers He complimented Prof Miller as being a pleasant gentleman and congenial companion He said Mr Miller caused him much amusement but was unable to discover what he was trying to do Mr Gearin said he favored temperance and complimented Prof Miller on his courage in taking a bold stand against intemperance but did not like his theory of enforcing temperance principles He indorsed the original principles and structure of the republican party but censured the action of individual members of the organization. Then he characterized the republican party as a crumbling ruin while he compared the democratic party to a new temple and invited the young men to take shelter beneath its covering Then followed a lengthy dissertation on protection and tariff from a democratic standpoint Mr Gearin made pathetic illustrations and appealed to the feelings of his hearers in favor of his arguments

BUILDING NOTES

Dr Patton will soon commence the construction of a residence on Ninth and G streets that will cost about $1000

On Fifteenth and G streets W H Bindick will build a cottage that will cost $1300

E M Burden is putting the finishing touches on a cottage on G and Ninth which when complete will cost about $1000

J L Furguson is putting up a residence on Seventh and D streets that will cost in the neighborhood of $1200 He will have a neat residence when completed Some one is building a small cottage on Fourth and D streets

Work is being pushed with energy on Dr Joseph's residence on Twelfth and N streets When completed it will be an ornament to that portion of the city It is being built among the shrubbery that half concealed the residence that stood so many years on that corner He will retain most of it, but will trim it and reduce it somewhat

NOTES.

The bridge company are distributing ties for their proposed line up N street.

O H Jackson has been awarded a contract to furnish the water company with 100 cords of wood

The roadway on Water street has again been patched up A few more patches and there will be a new roadway

The railroad company will probably complete the embankment through Sullivan's gulch this week that is if what dirt has been put in the gulch does not sink out of sight before that time.

School No 2 near Capt Kern's, will have a picnic in a grove a few rods south of the school house on Friday A temperance programme has been arranged for the occasion Exercises begin at 10 30

The wedding of J C Roberts and Miss Ida Hansen and that of Wm M Owen and Miss McDonald took place last night. All the parties except Mr Roberts are well known and popular young people in East Portland

The roadway on L street needs repairing at once Some of the planking has become tired of lying still and is endeavoring to get up and move somewhere else Some will certainly get away unless the commissioner comes around with hammer and nails

Councilman Murphy did not strike a popular chord when he moved to prevent some six families on Eleventh and Adams, in Stephens addition from obtaining city water, judging from the comments on his action made by prominent residents in that portion of the city

W W Terry is very favorably mentioned in connection with the republican nomination for councilman from Stephens addition Mr Terry is certainly well qualified and would work for the interests of the entire city and not be governed by personal spite He will be elected if he will consent to run

There was quite a gathering at Fidelity Lodge A O U W Tuesday night. Nine took the second degree and became full fledged members After the initiation was concluded ice cream was served and a pleasant evening was spent in this way The lodge is in a very flourishing condition and is constantly growing

HOPS—Here, as in all coast markets, there is nothing of moment to mention, there being no inquiry and consequently no trading. New York reports the usual call for best state, all other grades being in neglect.

A London report of April 30 says: The market continues very dull and there have been no transactions of importance. Occasionally growths of east and mid Kents have been offered at low figures and have found purchasers. The speculative trade in yearlings and olds has ceased. Continental do not meet with much attention, while American are entirely neglected.

HIDES, ETC.—Slow and easy market for the most part, receipts being light. San Francisco quotes an unchanged but generally easy market, while New York notes a light demand, limited mainly to small lots. River Plate dry beef are selling there at 16@16½c. Quotations of leading sorts are: Dry beef hides 6@10c per lb, culls 6@7c, kip and calf 8@10c, green salted 4@5c, kip and calf 6c, culls one-third off; valley deerskins 27½@32½c, and Eastern Oregon 22½@27½c for summer and winter; elk skins 22@18c, sheep pelts 20@80c for short to medium wooled, 90c@$1 25 for long, and 10@12c for murrain; beaver 75c to $2 per lb; bear 60c to $8 brown and 50c to $12 black. Tallow quoted 3@3½c.

The Merchandise Markets.

The very light shower of Saturday did not get away from the coast, but a number of cool nights and partly cloudy days have favored vegetation the past week. No doubt the wheat growers would all welcome a little rain, but at this time there is no crying need for it.

There is considerable dullness in the produce lines, and this no doubt is of some effect in restricting the merchandise call. Owing to the very excellent goods movement the influence is not a prominent one, it rather being remarked as aiding the quiet of trade, because the jobbing trade presents every reason for expressions of satisfaction, demands being all looked for. Rail arrivals are but little below the proportions of two to six weeks ago, there being a large receipt of staple groceries. But few lines present price changes, while throughout the list new influences are unimportant.

Aside from a recent receipt of oysters and corn from the East the local movement in canned goods is a light one. Local canners will be at work on early fruits, when they become cheaper, prices now being too high for canning. California canners are urgently seeking buyers, while sharp competition and rather lower cost of green fruit than was anticipated tends to make an easy market. The range of quotations there for staple descriptions is $1 50@1 60 for apricots, $1 80@$1 85 for peaches, $1 90@2 for pears and $1 45 for plums. These are for standards and well known brands. San Francisco spot tomatoes are offered down to 85c. At Baltimore the packing of oysters closed 5th inst., with a light total and stock on hand smaller than for five years past.

The salmon markets exhibit a considerable degree of quiet while holders are all firm in their ideas. The run in the Columbia is not meeting expectations, the selling element insisting that the work is behind that of a year ago. It is a fact that shipments indicate as much but there are those who say the totals are about even. On the Sacramento next to nothing is being done and perhaps the pack will stop at about 20,000 cases. From the north advices are wanting. Columbia brands are held up to last mentioned asking prices and some unsold Alaska is being held at $1 45.

Most recent London advices report concerning salmon: Notwithstanding the simultaneous arrival of the Argyleshire into London, with 31,000 cases from Victoria, and of the Dawpool into Liverpool, with 48,960 cases from San Francisco, on April 20, the market for salmon maintains a strong upward tendency, as the consignments by these vessels finish up the pack for 1886, and extreme prices have been paid. Outside river fish in importers' hands and second-hand parcels command 28s to 29s per case, with the best brands of Columbia river salmon at 29s 6d to 30s 6d. In Liverpool the value of the latter is 29s to 30s, while very common stuff is offered at 25s to 26s, which are the lowest figures quoted anywhere.

A San Francisco review for last week includes the following: All the cheaper grades of Liverpool salt have been marked down $1 50 per ton. No. 1 China rice is firm and in good demand while other grades are weak. Hawaiian, under a large supply and slackened inquiry, is 12½c lower. Nut oil, owing to scarcity here and higher freights, has advanced to 56@60c as to quality. Business in refined sugar at the declines is moderately active. Central American grades of coffee rule firm, slight advances being noted. The outlook for canned goods is promising, and while there is no especial change canners are confident of a good business this season.

BEANS—Limas and bayos are weaker in first markets. Here the whole supply is rather a light one, values being about steady. Quote small whites $4 50, pinks 3, bayos $3, butter $4, limas $4 50 per cental.

COFFEE—All Central American grades in better feeling, advices being of stronger markets. Rio is also quite firm. The local call is about as usual and stocks rather light. Quote Salvador 16½c, Costa Rica 18@20c, Rio 18@20c. Java 27½c, Arbuckle's roasted 21½c.

COAL OIL—Only a fair call, and one large dealer has quoted a decline. An ordinary brand now sells at 20@21c.

CANNED GOODS—Locally the market shows nothing of new interest. The California markets command a fair amount of attention. We quote: Table fruits, assorted, 2½s, $2@2 25, and 8s $5 50; blackberries gooseberries and cherries, 2½s, $2@2 25; currants, grapes, peaches $2 50, strawberries, $2 75, raspberries $3 25, plums $2, pineapples $2 25@2 75, apricots $2. Pie fruits, assorted, 2½s, $1 25, and 8s $3 75; apricots, blackberries, gooseberries, cherries and peaches, 2½s, $1 25@1 50; squash, $1 50. Jellies and jams, assorted, $1 65@1 75. Corn $1 35@1 50, tomatoes $1 for 2½s, beans $1, peas $1 40, asparagus $2 25, mushrooms $2 50, French peas $2@2 50.

SALT—The decline in cheap grades in San Francisco is without marked effect here. Our stock is of fair proportions only. Fine Liverpool quoted $16, $18 and $20, as to size of bags. Stock salt $9 50@10 per ton.

PICKLES—Kegs quoted $1 35@1 45.

SUGAR—The market is resting, and it is supposed that prices will be held where they are. New York has held steady and appears to be in steady feeling. Sixty day prices for barrels are: Golden C, 5⅝c; extra C, 5⅞c; dry granulated, 6⅝c; cube, crushed, fine crushed and powdered, 7½c. Halves and boxes, ¼@½c higher.

Wheat—Offerings are somewhat larger and the market is weak at $1 35 for No. 1 California. Options sold lower. Sales of buyer year, 1600 tons at $1 52⅞, 200 tons at $1 53, 500 tons at $1 52¾, 000 tons at $1 52⅝ on forenoon call. Afternoon session sales were: Buyer year 900 tons at $1 53¼, 100 tons at $1 53⅜, 200 tons at $1 53⅜, 100 tons at $1 53¼.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET REVIEW.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—Owing to the cool weather of the past few weeks, the crop prospect in many sections has been improved, but in a few parts of the state rain is badly needed.

Local clearing house exchanges last week were $17,586,000.

All cereals are weaker than at this date last week, owing to lower figures elsewhere, and to improved crop prospects here. This is particularly the case with wheat, which has dropped from $1 45 to $1 35, and is dull at the decline.

Oats have followed barley and are dead to sell at quite a decline.

Hay is lower and about 50 cents per ton lower in some grades. Prices have held up very well considering the time of year. New hay is not yet arriving very freely.

Hops continue stagnant. It is reported that Russian rivers at 6½ cents, and Sacramento hops at 5 and 5½ cents, have been bought for overland shipment, and Washington territory hops have sold at 6 and 7 cents.

Wool is almost as badly off as hops are. The Mills tariff bill, putting wool on the free list, hangs like a cloud over the market and stops all business. Nobody wants to buy wool now. Prices are dropping slowly but steadily. Until the Mills bill is settled one way or the other there will be very little trading in wool.

Potatoes find good inquiry, though poor lots have to be sacrificed.

Dairy products show some changes. Butter is coming in more freely, and the market is quiet and a shade lower. Cheese is firmer, and the demand is somewhat better, while stocks are moderate.

Canned salmon is dull at unchanged prices. Sales of salmon among the distributing trade have been large to this date, estimated at 150,000 cases of Columbia, and not much less of Alaska fish.

Lumber is weaker remarkably, the sharp demand of the past year having fallen off. Redwood lumber has been reduced $1 per thousand feet.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, May 23.—Wheat opened lower: 85⅝c June, 87¼c July, 86c August. At noon—85¼c May, 85⅝c June, 86⅝c July, 85¼c August. Closed—85c May, 85¼c June, 86¼c July, 86¼c August.

Provisions—Pork, $14 35 June; lard, $8 65 June; ribs, $7 65 June.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 23.—Cattle—Receipts, 12,000; opened weak, and generally steady; inferior to extra, $3 80@5; stockers and feeders, $2@4 15; Texas steers, $2 75@4 40.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Petroleum opened weak at 86⅛c, and declined to 84⅞c on selling by producers. As soon as their orders were exhausted the market recovered part of the loss, and closed steady at 85⅜c. Consolidated exchange—Opening 86⅛c, highest 86⅝c, lowest 84⅞c, closing 85⅜c. Total sales of both exchanges, 1,852,000 barrels.

Mining shares closed as follows: Amador $1 75, Bodie $2 45, Bulwer 50c, Caledonia Black Hills $2, California & Virginia $10 62, Eureka $9, El Cristo $2, Hale & Norcross $7 25, Iron Silver $3 75, Mexican $4, Plymouth $9 25, Pronstite $1 10, Savage $4 50, Standard $1 90, Sutro Tunnel 12c.

SIGHT IS PRICELESS.

If You Have Defective Eyes, and Value Them, go to

REED & MALCOLM

for your Spectacles and Eye-Glasses. It is the only establishment in the Northwest where they are measured on thorough scientific principles. Lenses ground, if necessary, to correct each particular case. No visual defect where glasses are required too complicated for us. We guarantee our fitting to be absolutely perfect. Our new optometer, an instrument to measure the strength of the eye, is the most complete, the best that science has produced, and is the only one ever invented that will give the exact amount of imperfection in one's sight.

IN AND ABOUT PORTLAND.

FURNISHED SEVERAL CANDIDATES.—The building on the northwest corner of First and Morrison streets has probably furnished more candidates for political office than any other in the city Within four years it has put five in the field The first was John M Gearin who was elected district attorney over A. H. Tanner, in 1884. In 1886 James Gleason and George A. Brodie were put on the democratic ticket The former was beaten for district attorney by Henry L McGinn, and the latter for justice of the peace for South Portland precinct by B B Tuttle This year two more candidates issued from the building Mr Gearin is running for congress on the democratic ticket and his law partner W B Gilbert, is a candidate for representative on the republican legislative ticket. So far Mr Gearin has been the only successful candidate from the building and if lightning should strike twice in the same place —— Besides the aforementioned unfortunates there is one young man who has narrowly escaped political preferment once or twice. Two years hence he will probably be in the field unless he is elected president of the United States in the meantime AVOIDED FINE DRIVES—The steam motor railway to the Sunnyside tract does not pass through Lone Fir cemetery as many have been led to infer A strip fifteen feet in width was purchased off the south end of the cemetery and the fences have been moved so that the track is outside of the cemetery altogether The extension of N street out which the motor line runs from Fifth goes no further than the east line of the cemetery The track from that point to Sunnyside will occupy a fifteen foot right of way till it reaches O street sixty feet wide up which it runs to the center of the street A right of way for the motor road could have been obtained over the base line road or Hawthorne avenue, but it was thought better to leave these thoroughfares free of rails, which might be obstructions to carriage driving.

FINE REPORTS FROM A MINE—Col S W Blaisdell, superintendent of the Nelson Mining Company of Baker county is in the city He says the company has been piping about three weeks, and as near as can be calculated from careful tests made the mine is netting $1000 per day A little trouble has arisen of late between the company and ranchers in the vicinity of their ditch in regard to water rights and the object of Col Blaisdell's visit here is to have the matter brought before the United States court for adjudication He feels confident of being able to establish the company's rights in the matter In fact from the colonel's jovial and confident appearance and bearing he seems to consider the case as good as won before it goes into the courts

A THING TO REMEMBER.—With nature in all its glory and a full moon throwing its silvery light upon the waters, there is no grander sight to be seen than the scenery along the upper Columbia. No one can well afford to miss the opportunity that now offers to see the mighty river and its surroundings in all its grandeur Steamer Multnomah will leave foot of Alder street on next Friday evening at 7 30 and East Portland 7 45 P M for a moonlight excursion up the Columbia, given by the young people of the First Presbyterian church of East Portland Tickets 50 cents can be had at the landing, if not secured before. A good programme, plenty of refreshments and a good time assured to all who attend.

COLLECTION OF VEHICLES COMPLETED—Mr. L L Hawkins has ordered a tandem tricycle, which will arrive here in a few weeks from the East and will be the first vehicle of the kind in Portland. He intends it for the use of his friends. A tandem tricycle is made for two persons to propel, and it gets the name 'tandem' from the fact that one rider sits in front of the other. Mr. Hawkins believes in and practices the theory that out-door exercise is absolutely necessary to perfect health, and he sets a good example in always giving enjoyment to others His "outing" plant consists of a cart, a carryall, a carriage, a sleigh and his toboggan "my best girl," and now the tricycle will complete it

NEW BOAT FOR YAQUINA—A gentleman just from Yaquina bay states that a new boat commenced some time ago there is rapidly approaching completion James Chatterton is the proprietor of the new craft. It is being built at Yaquina City and when completed will ply between that point and Newport The boat will be a propeller The machinery formerly used on the Tressa May has been placed in the new boat and will be employed in driving it The new boat will be a size larger than the Alarm is of the same class, and will be used for carrying passengers and freight about the bay She will be completed and ready for service in two or three weeks

NEW BUSINESS BUILDING.—Mr S G Reed will erect a three-story brick building 50x100 feet on his lot at the southeast corner of North Front and B streets The front will be made to correspond with the building adjoining and the building which is to be completed this summer, will be furnished with an elevator and all modern improvements. Mr Reed is the owner of the vacant lot at the corner of A and North Front, opposite where the Skidmore fountain is about to be erected. It is more than likely that he will in the near future, have a handsome building erected there as the situation is one of the finest in that part of the city.

TENNIS MATCH.—The lawn tennis match between Mr V Courtenay Lewis of the Neighborhood Tennis club and G. B. Reynolds, of Vancouver, for the championship of Oregon, will probably take place on the morning of Decoration Day, but where, has not yet been decided. Besides the game of singles there may be a game of doubles in which event Mr Lewis will be assisted by Mr Huffman The name of Mr Reynolds's assistant is not known.

WILL MAKE NO STATEMENT—Joseph Schilling, the young man who was arrested Tuesday, charged with embezzling between $2500 and $3000 from Theodore Liebe, is still confined in the city jail, being unable to furnish bonds He refuses to make any statement his attorney Richard Williams having advised him not to. Schilling, however, is confident that he will be vindicated in the end The case will be called for examination in the police court to-morrow

COMPETITIVE DRILL.—To-morrow afternoon instead of the regular dress parade at Bishop Scott academy there will be a competitive drill between the three companies in the academy The prize is a silk banner All the boys feel great interest in the contest and the work will be keen and sharp as is the spirit of the contestants. Friends of the academy are invited to be present

DIED FROM HIS INJURIES.—Samuel Tarnahan, who was so severely injured on the 14th inst. by a log rolling upon him, died at St. Vincent's hospital at 11 A M yesterday But little hope was entertained of his recovery from the first, and for the past day or two it was seen that the end of his sufferings was approaching His remains will be taken down to Green Point on the Bonita this morning and interred in the burial ground there beside other members of the family

INCORPORATIONS—Articles incorporating the Pacific Land & Investment Co were filed in the office of the county clerk yesterday by H R. Lewis, A. C Brey and John T Flynn The object is to engage in a general real estate business in Oregon and Washington Capital $10,000 The Alma Consolidated Gold Mining & Milling Co., was incorporated by B Goldsmith S Goldsmith and Louis J Goldsmith Capital stock $1 000 000 divided into 1 000 000 shares

THE GRIP—This is an age of inventions surely Now we have the grip not the kind a brother of the lodge gives you or that of the man who hangs tightly to his money but a machine which requires the deposit of a nickle ere you can determine what strength you have in your digits The strongest record yet made in this vicinity so far as heard from is that of Henry Ackerman a slender gentleman who has a strong grip judging by the figures—290

WILL TRY TO HAVE A SALE POSTPONED—Steps are being taken by the attorneys of the Holladay estate and Joseph Holladay to make arrangements whereby the sale of the stock of the Oregon Real Estate Company advertised to take place May 31 may be averted The probabilities are that if $60 000 is raised by Joseph Holladay and paid to satisfy the most urgent claims against the estate the sale ordered by Judge Deady will not take place.

A DISTRIBUTING CENTER—Mr Frank Kellogg of Heppner who is in the city, says that the completion of the O R & N branch to that city will make it the shipping point of the wool of a large scope of country Several million pounds of wool will be handled that now goes to Arlington for shipment In consequence of these bright prospects property in Heppner is steadily advancing, and a boom is imminent

EXHIBIT FOR COLUMBUS OHIO—Inquiry is made relative to the exhibit to be made by Oregon at Columbus Ohio, next September, when the Grand Army of the Republic is to meet in that city California is making preparations to that end and Oregon cannot afford to play "second fiddle any longer We can show a few products that knock all other states into the shade

TO WATCH THE POLLS.

The United States Court to Appoint Supervisors for Portland.

A Petition Presented to Judge Deady How Supervisors Are to be Selected—The Law on the Subject

A petition has been presented to Judge Deady asking him to appoint two supervisors for each polling place in this city for the purpose of guarding and scrutinizing the election on June 4 for a member of congress as provided in title 26 of the revised statutes The petition is signed by W W Thayer Charles E Sitton Raleigh Stott Frank Dekum and Henry Failing.

The appointing of such supervisors has not been customary here and it cannot be done unless at least two citizens petition for it, but when a petition is presented the supervisors must be appointed

The statute provides that they shall be appointed by the United States circuit judge but Judge Deady was designated by Judge Sawyer in 1877 when the law was passed to perform the duties of circuit judge in this respect in this district The law provides for the appointing of one of the United States circuit court commissioners as chief supervisor of elections and in 1880 J H Woodward was appointed to the position

Judge Deady made an order yesterday advising the chief supervisor that he had been requested to appoint supervisors for the forthcoming election and directing him to proceed according to the statute in the matter

Mr Woodward will prepare a list of persons eligible from which Judge Deady will make his selection of two supervisors for each polling place one from each political party who must be voters in the precinct where they are to serve

The supervisors of election are required to attend at the election for representative in congress and at the counting of votes cast at such election to challenge any vote offered by any person whose legal qualifications the supervisors or either of them may doubt to be and remain where the ballot boxes are kept at all times after the polls are open until every vote cast has been counted the canvass of all votes polled wholly completed and the proper returns made, and to personally inspect all such operations

The better to enable the supervisors of elections to discharge their duties they are directed on the day of election to take and occupy such position as will best enable them to see each person offering to vote and as will best conduce to their scrutinizing the manner in which the voting is being conducted, and after the closing of the polls they will take such positions as will best enable them to perform their duties in regard to such canvass, required by law and there remain until every duty has been wholly completed

The supervisors are allowed $5 per day for not to exceed five days the accounts to be audited and paid at the United States treasury

THE LAUNCH OF THE T J. POTTER.

Tuesday, 3 P M, the Hour Fixed—How the Name Came to be Changed.

All arrangements will be perfected for the launch of the new steamer T J Potter next Tuesday Three o clock is the hour designated for cutting the ropes which is the signal for the large and elegant craft to move down the ways No expense will be spared in fitting and furnishing the new boat Among other appointments will be electric lights The fixtures will be the handsomest in their line yet shown in this city The dynamo for making the light will be run in connection with the regular steamer boiler The light fixtures will be so arranged that either oil lamps or electricity can be used at a moment's notice

When the announcement was made that the new steamer was to be christened the Fannie Potter, the inquiry was frequently made whether it was to be named after the wife or daughter of the late T J Potter several days since THE OREGONIAN stated that by order of Manager Holcomb the name of the steamer would be changed to the T J Potter instead of the Fannie Potter, the question again came up The following explanation may be of interest

During Mr Potter's life he had a peculiar dislike or prejudice, against having anything named after him He never would have a boat, a locomotive a car or a town bear his name if he could prevent it. For this reason when the new boat was to be built he expressly desired that it should bear the name of his daughter, Fannie Potter Since his death Mrs Potter has written to Manager Holcomb and stated that it was her wish, as well as the desire of the family that the new boat should bear her husband's name Deference to the wish of Mr Potter during his life was paid in naming the boat after his daughter but after his death the objection was removed. Mr Potter took a great deal of personal pride and interest in the new boat, and intended to bring his family to Portland to see the steamer and travel on her

CHARLES DICKENS'S SECOND READING.

An Evening With David Copperfield and Bob Sawyer and His Friends.

An audience large and brilliant and representative of the culture and taste of Portland society assembled at the New Park last evening, to enjoy the second and last reading by Mr Charles Dickens of extracts from his illustrious father's works The first part of the evening's readings consisted of the story of David Copperfield, condensed by the author into five chapters.

Mr Dickens having recovered from the fatigue incident to his journey was in good voice and he read the touching story in such a manner as to elicit the warmest applause Of all the many works of Charles Dickens David Copperfield is, perhaps, the one which most appeals to the sympathetic emotions of the reader The sturdy, homely figure of Old Peggotty never resting until he has found his betrayed Emily, Emily herself tender trustful and too loving innocent Dora, the child wife the polished but misguided Steerforth, Ham Peggotty brave honest and faithful to the end lone and lorn Mrs Gummidge and last of all David himself are types drawn in such strong and lasting colors that it needs but the recital of their story as told by the great master of pathos to enchain the interest and sway the emotions of an audience This was fully illustrated during the reading last night As Mr Dickens read of Ham's courtship Emily's disappearance, old Peggotty's tireless search and final success, and the shipwreck the listeners followed him intently as though not to lose a word of the sad and sorrowful tale He read it well too not, perhaps as a trained and polished elocutionist but in an easy graceful and natural style with a clearness of articulation and a simulation of different conversational mannerisms suitable to each particular personage The description of the shipwreck was, indeed, remarkably well read

The second part of the entertainment comprised the humorous sketch 'Bob Sawyer's Party' and was read in a light and eminently pleasing vein which brought out the characteristic humor of the sketch most admirably Mr Jack Hopkins's story of the boy who swallowed the necklace and the quarrel and reconciliation between Mr Hopkins and the sentimental young man were thoroughly enjoyed, as were also the other points of the story

REBUILDING A COLLIER

The Oregon Improvement Company Making a Passenger Ship Out of the Walla Walla

The Oregon Improvement Company's collier Willamette, which left Astoria Sunday reached Seattle Monday noon The vessel is now loading with coal and will be due in Portland in a few days The Willamette will bring about 2300 tons of coal The loading will not proceed as rapidly as usual owing to the fact that new machinery is being put in the Franklin mines Only one of the coal shafts can be used in loading until the overhauling is completed

The Walla Walla is now on the dry dock at San Francisco being practically rebuilt so far as the upper works are concerned The collier has been on the ways for the past three weeks and the overhauling and rebuilding will probably require from four to six months Her passenger accommodations will be increased to nearly the capacity of the Columbia or State of California The Walla Walla is a large steamer being 342 feet long and having a greater freight capacity than any of the steamers running north of San Francisco When rebuilt she will be a fine passenger ship Capt Blackburn, who is now in command of the Willamette will be transferred to the Walla Walla as soon as the latter is ready to take the line

The collier Umatilla is now on the regular passenger and freight line between San Francisco and Sound ports

WANTS TO START A YEAST FACTORY

A Wisconsin Man Anxious to Establish a Paying Enterprise Here

C W Pinkham of Fond du Lac Wisconsin manager of an enterprise which manufactures a number of household preparations writes to THE OREGONIAN desiring to enlist some thorough business man of means in the manufacture in Portland of dry hop yeast He says the enterprise is not an experiment. In one year his company built up a business of 250,000 boxes of yeast and it is steadily growing Orders have been received from Washington territory but Mr Pinkham says the high freights eat up nearly all the profits The letter was referred to the board of immigration

Just what ingredients are used by this company in manufacturing dry yeast is not known but no doubt Oregon produces the raw material—hops flour and potatoes—in ample quantity and quite as cheap as the state of Wisconsin. Mr Pinkham's best plan is to come to Portland If he is in earnest (he seems to be so) and can show that yeast making is a profitable industry he can get enough stock subscribed here in a very few days to start the enterprise and put it on a solid financial footing

VIOLATED THE WATER WORKS RULES.

The Supply Shut off From Several Residences—Several Provisions Quoted

The management of the water works have concluded that moral suasion has been tried long enough in the effort to confine the use of water for irrigating purposes to certain hours and propose to try what virtue there is in [illegible] stones hence they are turning off the water at every place where sections 10, 11 and 12 of their rules and regulations are being violated For the benefit of those who are not informed on this matter the sections referred to are given below

Section 10 Sidewalk sprinkling must be confined within the limits of the front of the premises for which payment has been made and not extend to the adjoining street

Section 11 The use of hose for sprinkling streets is forbidden under any circumstances

Section 12 The use of water for irrigation is prohibited except between the hours of 6 and 8 A M and 5 and 8 P M

A BOAT ON THE SIUSLAW

The Steamer Favorite Arrives Safely at Florence—A Beautiful Country

News has been received here of the safe arrival at Siuslaw of the little steam propeller Favorite which left Astoria a short time since From Astoria the Favorite went to Yaquina bay, and from there proceeded to Siuslaw She made the run in good time leaving Yaquina bay at 4 o clock A M and reaching Florence at 12 M the same day The Favorite will make regular trips between Florence and the head of navigation on the Siuslaw river a distance of nearly thirty miles

A gentleman who has recently returned from a trip to that part of Lane county speaks in glittering terms of the character of the Siuslaw country and of its prospects He says the Siuslaw river is one of the most beautiful streams he has ever seen It is navigable to small boats for about thirty miles from the mouth, the water is clear and sparkling flowing through a mountainous region for considerable distance especially that portion which is navigable There are no obstructions to the channel and boats have no difficulty in ascending and descending.

PREPARING FOR PIONEERS.

The Executive Committee Arranging for the Next Reunion

Sub Committees to Cover Every Detail Appointed Yesterday—Rev Thomas Condon and Gen E. L. Applegate the Orators

The executive committee appointed by the board of directors of the Oregon Pioneer Association last December to arrange for the next reunion met at 9 A M yesterday in the parlors of the Commercial National bank, Mr Frank Dekum presiding

After discussing plans of action at some length Mr Henry Failing was appointed a committee on finance with authority to choose such assistants as he [illegible] proper

Mr D P Thompson was given the duty of arranging for reduced rates for persons attending the reunion over the various transportation lines centering here

Mr Chas W Knowles was authorized to act as a committee of one on music Gen Wm Kapus on public exercises and providing carriages and Mr Frank Dekum on invitations

Hon Geo H Durham was chosen marshal of the day, with authority to select his own aides

An invitation was extended to the Indian War Veterans and the Native Sons of Oregon to join in the exercises of the day

It was decided that the rendezvous prior to forming the procession should be at the court house It is expected that the addresses will be delivered at the Mechanics pavilion

Rev Thomas Condon of Eugene City will deliver the annual address and Gen E L Applegate the occasional address and Rev Wm Roberts of Dayton will act as chaplain

In the evening a grand ball will be given

The committee will meet in a few days and all details of the reunion line of march management of the ball etc will then be completed and made public

The committee earnestly request that every pioneer and his wife and their mature sons and daughters account Friday June 15 a previous engagement and make a note of it at once so that it will not be forgotten

Of all the reunions that have been held since the organization of the Pioneer Association it is the purpose of the committee to make that on the 15th of June next the best. The only thing which can prevent this will be a failure of the pioneers themselves to be present, and of this no fears are entertained

THE SIX DAYS OF CREATION

Second Lecture by Rev I Doughty at the Tabernacle

"The second day of creation as it is read in Genesis i 6 7 8" was the theme of the second lecture of the Rev I Doughty at the Tabernacle last night to a very attentive audience The lecturer reads the entire story of the creation as only a garment unfolding a divine revelation of the orderly growth of the human soul from its birth in the material world to its triumphant entry into heaven Human life, he said commences in utter ignorance and feebleness but with a God given capacity, if man will suffer it to be developed to enter the realms of the kingdom of God with a heart filled with the love of God and man But the progress from the one state to the other is a gradual one like all the works of God The summary of these states each one most distinct from the other is pictured out by the divine hand in the seven days of creation

The first one is the rapidly accumulating increase of knowledges brought about by man's experiences and teachings from childhood to manhood It is the divine language the creation of light and constitutes the first day The second day is man's perception and acknowledgement that above all these worldly knowledges and motives, laid down in man's memory all looking only to self and its aggrandizement there lies a hitherto undiscovered region in the human soul which looks for its motives to God and away from self and the world This perception of two ranges of truth, one relating to earth, the other to heaven is described as the division of the waters below and above the firmament The elucidation of the lecturer by a multitude of scripture passages showing that in scripture language truth relating to man's earthly duties whether in filled with earthly or heavenly duties is typified by water was both happy and convincing Next lecture this evening at the Tabernacle at 8 P M
